

Faces Another Deadline, Plans Appeal

Subpoena Scorecard...A Round to Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has won an important court round against one Watergate-related subpoena. He faced a deadline later today on a second, is expected to appeal a third and may have successfully refused a fourth.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for the House impeachment committee criticized Nixon's published transcripts as inaccurate and incomplete, and Nixon's spokesmen charged the committee with distorting facts.

This was Nixon's current subpoena scorecard:

1. Seven judges of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia ruled Thursday that the Senate Watergate committee has not shown enough reason for demanding from the White House five tapes of Nixon's conversations with his former aide, John W. Dean III. The appeals court said the Senate panel could read the published edited transcripts of the tapes and, for further information, could await the findings of the impeachment inquiry of the House Judiciary Committee, which has been given the tapes themselves. But the judges made clear they might not rule the same way on other subpoenas. Watergate committee counsel Sam Dash said the panel will consider whether to appeal further.

2. Nixon faced a deadline today to answer U. S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell's subpoena to the President for files of former aides John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson for use in their June trial on charges of conspiracy to break into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

3. U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has given Nixon until 4 p.m. EDT today to appeal his ruling approving Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's subpoena for additional evidence to be used at the trial of Nixon aides accused of covering up the break-in at Democratic offices in the Watergate complex. The White House has indicated it will appeal.

4. The President said Wednesday he would not comply with subpoenas of the House Judiciary Committee for more Watergate material. The chairman of that committee, Rep. Peter W. Rodino, has said he does not want a court confrontation. Committee member, John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., wants to cite Nixon for contempt, but a majority of the committee apparently opposes that.

Rodino said Thursday that the 1,300 pages of edited transcripts which the White House has made public contain "misstatements, omissions of words and paragraphs, misattributions... additions, inaudibles" and deletions. Committee lawyers John M. Doar and Albert E. Jenner Jr. said inaccuracies were found when the committee checked some of the transcripts against those tapes it already has.

Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, replied in writing that these charges were "gratuitous in the extreme" and had "no basis." Though different transcriptions of a tape contain different words, he declared, "the meaning of the entire conversation viewed as a whole is not subject to serious differences of opinion as to what is said. Differences, of course, can exist as to the interpretations that be placed on the conversation."

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler Thursday accused members of the impeachment committee of putting out a distorted version of Nixon's Dictabelt recollections of the March 21, 1973, conversation in which Dean told him about Watergate. Ziegler said members quoted Nixon as saying, "It was an uneventful day," but that the President actually said, "As far as the day was concerned, it was uneventful except for the talk with Dean."

That, charged Ziegler, is "an example of the distortion and piecemeal presentation" committee members are giving to newsmen on the secret impeachment hearings.

In other developments: —Attorney General William B. Saxbe said he will support Special Prosecutor Jaworski's "independence" from any White House pressure.

—St. Clair told newsmen: "If anyone were to read those transcripts from cover to cover he could not conclude that the President is hiding anything. I submit, if anything he has disclosed far too much."

Supreme Court Could Break Deadlock: Fish

By HUGH REYNOLDS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., admittedly "baffled" by the ambiguity of a Presidential "defense" that proclaims innocence but refuses to produce proof, suggested today that perhaps the Supreme Court should be called in to break this historic deadlock between the legislative and executive branches of government.

The great paradox of the Watergate investigation, as Fish sees it, is if President Nixon is innocent of Watergate and the subsequent cover-up attempt and if he has proof of his innocence then why doesn't he come forth with it?

Nixon's latest refusal to supply tapes on three crucial dates — April 4, 1972 when the so-called Liddy Plan was approved leading directly to the break-in; June 20, 1972, the first day Nixon was back in Washington after the weekend break-in and June 23, 1972, a date on which it is believed the cover-up first began — only seems to be compounding the confusion surrounding the President's actions.

"These tapes could show he had no knowledge of these events," Fish said. "We could totally exonerate him of any complicity if we had tapes to substantiate his innocence."

As to Nixon's continuing non-compliance, Fish said, "Frankly, I'm baffled."

Fish said the importance of the tapes relating to the three above mentioned dates was established in "the course of listening to evidence."

President Nixon's Watergate lawyer claims the President has disclosed too much on Watergate. Story, page 7.

"During the first days of our hearings we had a mass of evidence leading up to those dates and then all of a sudden, a blank," Fish, a member of the House Judiciary Committee investigating Watergate, said.

The quality of evidence already in the hands of the Judiciary Committee has also been questioned by Majority Counsel John Doar and Fish tends to agree with him. Doar noted that the White House's "editorializing" of the tapes had left gaps, variances with what was known, and in some cases there was more information on the edited version than on the tapes themselves. Fish said Doar was a "professional, giving us the best of his legal judgment."

There are indications that now only the tapes themselves, and not White House transcripts of the tapes will satisfy the House Judiciary Committee, but Nixon's refusal to supply the latest request again raised the question on how the committee would get them.

The committee has resorted to subpoenas to force Nixon to comply but appears to have no enforcement powers other than the threat of contempt of Congress and its handling of the Nixon seems to be ignoring.

Fish, in suggesting the Supreme Court be called in on this deadlock between the executive and legislative branches of government says, "The only way we can get the truth is to hear those tapes, and I believe the court would rule that the implied doctrine of executive privilege would not prevail over the (Constitutional) expressly granted impeachment powers of the House of Representatives."

While Fish, as he has in the past, refused to draw "any inferences" from the President's actions, he still is a staunch defender of the Judiciary Committee and its handling of the Watergate investigation of the White House.

Responding to presidential criticism that the committee should confine itself to the Watergate investigation, Fish said,

"Watergate, the break-in plus the cover-up, is just one of six areas. We are given a very broad authority by the House. It called for us to conduct a thorough inquiry and where allegations have been raised we have pursued them."

Escaped Lion Killed Near Saugerties

By LYNN MULVANEY

SAUGERTIES — Public safety warranted the shooting of a large dangerous mountain lion in Saugerties Thursday night, Hurley State Police said.

The lion was the second to escape from the Tri County Zoo in the past few weeks. A Golden Cat, which was domesticated and not considered dangerous, was dispatched to the animal but it was done in the interest of public safety.

The lion continued to elude the officers and wasn't seen again until 7 p.m. near the Robins Sheep Farm off Rt. 32, in the Town of Saugerties.

Due to the oncoming darkness and the definite chance that the lion could have gotten loose in the Village of Saugerties, "on the scene with tranquilizing guns. The lion was next seen at about 4 p.m. and at 10 p.m. it was seen again. It was then that it was shot. The lion was shot at about 3 p.m. and three troopers and a sergeant were dispatched to the scene. The lion continued to elude the officers and wasn't seen again until 7 p.m. near the Robins Sheep Farm off Rt. 32, in the Town of Saugerties.

Police Surround House, But No Patty

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Police surrounded a house early today in their hunt for Patricia Hearst and remnants of the Symbionese Liberation Army but they acted on proved false.

The operation began quietly after a telephone tip at 10 p.m. Thursday.

By 5 a.m. there were 60 officers on the scene and they prepared to move in. The house in question was off the street behind another in which the owner lives.

Police called the owner on the phone and he thought they were joking and hung up.

Police then called the house in the rear and identified themselves again. The two women living in the place also thought they were joking. They were told to call police headquarters and they did.

The women were told to turn all the lights on and walk out to the front porch. They complied. Police searched the house and found no evidence of the SLA.

The women requested that their names be withheld. Also, stressing the dangers of being a fugitive, two teen-aged sisters of Patricia Hearst have pleaded with her to surrender to police because "we really love you."

Ann Hearst, 18, and her sister, Victoria, 17, appealed Thursday in taped messages to other criminal offenses, has Miss Hearst to end an ordeal which began Feb. 4 when the Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapped her from a Berkeley apartment.

The police and the FBI aren't all that sympathetic anymore," Vicki said. "I mean Hearst, and two other SLA members, William and Emily Harris, were still at large. There were these other developments Thursday:

—Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi disclosed that microscopic examinations indicated Donald DeFreeze, the November

SLA's leader who went by the name "Cinque," killed himself in Friday's shootout that left five other SLA members dead in Los Angeles. DeFreeze was buried Thursday in Cleveland, Ohio, his home. His brother vowed to carry on "my father's banner."

—Los Angeles police said two guns found in the charred debris of the SLA's hideout which was attacked in a blazing gun battle were linked with two young men held on suspicion of killing Oakland School Superintendent Marcus A. Foster last

Jazz Giant for 60 Years

Duke Ellington Dead of Lung Cancer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Duke Ellington, the prolific and versatile composer-pianist who gave the world "Mood Indigo" and a variety of music ranging from jazz to opera, died today of lung cancer complicated by pneumonia. He was 75.

A statement issued jointly by the musician's family and physicians said Ellington died at 3:10 a.m. after having had "cancer involving both lungs and pneumonia."

Ellington entered the medical center's Harkness Pavilion last month, but his condition was described optimistically until last Wednesday when the onset of the pneumonia led doctors to describe his condition as serious.

The statement said Ellington had undergone intensive radio and chemical therapy since he entered the facility at the end of March.

"He was heartened by the many messages he received from friends throughout the world," the statement said.

It also was announced that a Duke Ellington Memorial Fund would be established at the hospital for research in cancer.

Almost three generations knew Ellington as the tall, gracious man in the tuxedo, conducting his band from the keyboard of a grand piano; the man whose tunes like "Mood Indigo," "Sophisticated Lady" and "In My Solitude" are woven into millions of memories.

Ellington received virtually ever honor that could come to a musician, topped off by the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian award, presented to him by President Nixon on Ellington's 70th birthday, April 29, 1969.

Ellington's compositions expanded over the years to include sacred music, tone poems, background scores for movies and stage dramas, he once said. "It's just a commercial word to me."

Cool, impeccable and composed, the Duke's sophisticated music made him one of the most influential bandleaders in the 20th Century.

Kissinger Hoping to Wrap It Up

JERUSALEM (AP) — With a new life pumped into his peace mission by talks in Damascus and Jerusalem, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger meets with Israeli leaders today, two days before he plans to leave the Middle East for Washington.

A senior U.S. official said Kissinger would return to the Syrian capital later today or Saturday, hoping to wrap up an agreement separating the two countries' hostile armies in the Golan Heights. Either way, the official said, Kissinger will go home on Sunday—the 28th day of his marathon shuttle diplomacy mission. The official said Thursday night that Israel and Syria were "considerably closer" to agreement on thinning their forces than they had been 24 hours earlier. He said the progress came after Kissinger offered suggestions privately to Israeli Premier Golda Meir and later to President Hafez Assad of Syria in 4½ hours of talks. Kissinger also reportedly made progress on determining the size of the United Nations force that will patrol the thinned-out regions and a buffer zone between the armies. A cease-fire line reportedly already is set. "It is my judgment that we have made good progress in the negotiations," Kissinger said at a luncheon in Damascus. "Even if we should for some reason not complete it in this session, we will surely bring it to a successful conclusion in the near future." There was speculation that other U.S. negotiators might remain behind to keep talks going. At the luncheon, which Kissinger gave for Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam and other Syrian officials, Kissinger described a separation of Israeli and Syrian forces as "a first step" toward a "just and permanent peace" in the Middle East. While Kissinger was in Damascus, Israeli politicians signed a coalition agreement guaranteeing that Premier-designate Yitzhak Rabin will head a new government and have a two-seat majority in the Israeli parliament. To be included with the ruling Labor alignment are the Independent Liberal party—a traditional government partner—and the Citizens Rights Movement, which supports dovish Arab policies and has worked for women's rights. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said he would not serve in the new coalition.

Israeli Planes Strafe Syrians

By United Press International — Israeli warplanes launched air strikes on the Golan Heights today, strafing Syrian positions just a day after a band of Arab guerrillas infiltrated through Syrian front lines on a abortive suicide raid against Israel. The Tel Aviv military command said the raids, the first air strikes on the Heights since May 15, lasted 45 minutes and all the planes returned safely to their bases.

In Damascus, military commandos said Syrian air defense systems shot down one Israeli warplane carrying out attacks along the southern sector of the Golan Heights. The raids hit Syrian positions along the southern edge of a bulge captured by Israel in the 17-day October Middle East war. The raids came one day after Israeli troops on the Golan Heights killed six Arab guerrillas.

la infiltrators from Syria and captured two others. Palestinian guerrillas warned of more suicide raids against towns in Israel despite the failure of the planned Maalot-style terrorist attack aimed at seizing civilian hostages in exchange for jailed commandos. A military spokesman in Damascus said Syrian and the guerrillas must have had Israeli artillery units clashed the approval and cooperation of this morning on the heights following all-day battles along the front line into Israeli-held territory. The Israeli military command kept troops on maximum alert along the northern frontier to prevent new raids and Syria reported the 73rd consecutive day of a non-stop war of attrition along the embattled Golan Heights. A military spokesman in Damascus said Syrian and the guerrillas must have had Israeli artillery units clashed the approval and cooperation of this morning on the heights following all-day battles along the entire, 40-mile length of the northern cease-fire line. In Jerusalem Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger attempted to draft a compromise U.S. plan to overcome the last obstacles blocking the separation of Israeli and Syrian forces on the Golan Heights. A high U.S. official traveling with Kissinger said the secretary has made "considerable progress" in stepped-up diplomatic shuttles aimed at arranging a military disengagement accord. The official said a separation pact could be initiated at the end of the weekend, but Kissinger was determined to head for home Sunday even if the final details were still unfinished. The Tel Aviv command said a border patrol killed six guerrillas and captured two Thursday in a shootout with a commando band cutting across the Golan Heights on a mission against settlements in Israel. A spokesman reported no Israeli losses.

at Maalot, issued a statement in Damascus saying the Israelis suffered "tens of casualties" in the clash. The Israeli command presented the two captured guerrillas to newsmen in the Golan Heights after the shootout and the commandos calmly answered questions in Arabic and broken English. Mohammed Shiel, one of the commandos, said there would be more guerrilla raids into Israel despite the latest failure. "How should I know?" he responded when asked for more details. Shiel said his squad had planned to take civilian hostages in a strategy similar to the guerrillas that took part in the Maalot raid, which led to the deaths of 27 Israelis and three guerrillas. The 27-year-old guerrilla, who described himself as a native of Aleppo, Syria, said his commando unit planned to raid northern Israeli settlements by the Sea of Galilee. He said his men would have blown up the hostages if the Israeli government refused to release imprisoned guerrillas in exchange for the civilians.

CAPTURED BY ISRAELIS — Captured Arab guerrillas Casbar Casbar (blindfold) and Abdullah el Mehdi sit in field after capture by Israeli border patrol. Six other Arabs were killed in the infiltration attempt. El-Mehdi said he was a member of the Palestinian group involved in Maalot massacre and was ordered to capture dwellings and hostages at Ein Gev and Haon in the East shore of the Sea of Galilee as ransom for 25 Arabs held in Israeli jails. British Troops Waiting for Orders BELFAST (UPI) — The army reported thousands of British troops ready today to move in and break a disastrous, nine-day-old strike by Protestant militants if Prime Minister Harold Wilson gives the order.

Wilson called a meeting in London today with leaders of Northern Ireland's ruling coalition. Government sources said the talks would decide whether to use the 16,500 troops in the province to keep emergency services going.

Wilson met in London Thursday night with key ministers to discuss Northern Ireland's troubles. The sources said he considered arresting strike organizers, but decided "at the moment it would be unwise to do so."

An army spokesman said officers have worked out contingency plans "to safeguard vital supplies and power," risking a bloody confrontation with Protestant militants.

The Ulster Workers Council, which claims to represent 350,000 workers, called the strike to press demands for new elections in the province.

and an end to Roman Catholics and Protestant sharing power. "We are prepared to go any distance," Harry Murray, the council's Belfast leader, said. "Even if the Northern Ireland people go from one meal a day to no meal a day there will be no surrender."

The impact of the walkout worsened. Londonderry, the second largest city, ran out of gas and electricity. Widespread blackouts of up to 12 hours darkened Belfast.

Electricity service spokesman Hugo Patterson said the power situation in the province was "desperate and hopeless" and the only plant still functioning would shut down by Sunday unless vital hydrogen and propane were delivered.

Factories were silent. Most stores closed. Housewives lined up for dwindling food supplies. Garbage piled uncollected on streets, creating a health hazard.

Militants armed with clubs prevented workers from going to their jobs, but many Protestants supported the walk-out despite increasing deprivation.

"They say we are being intimidated," George Gorgers, a 48-year-old cobbler, said, standing in line to enter one of Belfast's few open food stores. "That's not true. We all support the strike 100 per cent."

The few cars still on Ulster's nearly empty roads had to wait in lines of up to a mile at gasoline stations. Protestant militiamen limited fuel to such essential workers as doctors and nurses.

Gerry Fitt, one of the Northern Ireland leaders meeting today with Wilson, called the strike organizers "fascists and thugs."

"I will be making the strongest possible representations that the British government must face this challenge once and for all," Fitt, a Catholic, said. "Otherwise there will be total chaos not only in Northern Ireland but throughout these islands."

New York Council Defeats Gay Bill

NEW YORK (UPI) — The City Council narrowly defeated a controversial homosexual rights bill Thursday.

Following a three-hour debate, punctuated by shouts of "bigot" from the gallery, the councilmen voted down the bill, 22-19. There were two abstentions.

The vote was considered a victory for the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York, which lobbied actively against the measure.

Councilman Carter Burden, the bill's principal sponsor, told reporters he would reintroduce the measure today.

After the vote, 150 angry supporters of the measure marched into St. Patrick's Cathedral singing, "We are gay and we are proud."

The church's doors were locked at 7:45 p.m., one hour and 15 minutes earlier than usual, with the demonstrators and some police officers still inside.

At 10 p.m., all but five of the protesters left the building by a side entrance, shouting, "Justice now!"

Police reported the other five finally left about midnight. No one was arrested.

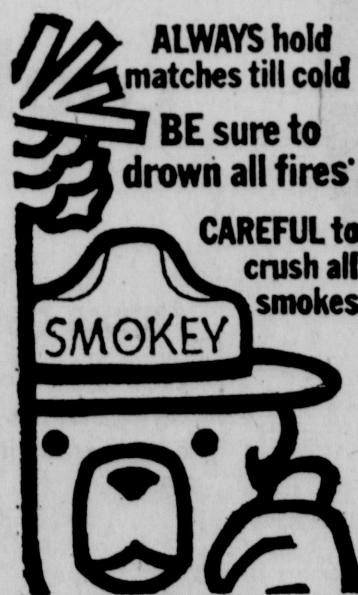

A last-ditch maneuver by Councilman Theodore Weiss to table the bill and save it from defeat failed on a vote of 23-20.

After the councilmen voted and Council President Paul O'Dwyer announced the final tally, one young man repeatedly screamed "Heterosexual pigs!"

"The council has acted in fear and bigotry," said Morty Manford, president of the Gay Activists Alliance.

The bill, which would have barred discrimination in housing, employment and public accommodations on the basis of sexual orientation, was voted onto the floor last March by the General Welfare Committee, 9-1, after four previous defeats.

Passage at the time seemed certain, but opposition from the church hierarchy, as well as from the Uniformed Firefighters Association and other groups, changed many councilmen's minds.

The larger your car, the more you have to use your head.

Lots of us want to keep on driving family-size cars. For the sake of comfort, convenience and added security. And that makes it extra important to know how to get the most out of every gallon of gas.

By now, it's no news that gas mileage is connected to the foot bone. So you should drive with a light, steady touch on the accelerator.

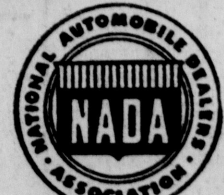

And your car will roll along easier if you keep the tires fully inflated and have the wheels aligned. That saves gas too.

It's also vital to have your car serviced and tuned regularly. Especially when it's a family-size car. If it runs a little rough, it's wasting gas.

Your new car dealer has skilled technicians who are factory trained to tune your car for maximum mileage. He's also a man who believes in your freedom of mobility. So he wants to do everything possible to avoid gas rationing.

Schovel Enters Race for Dems' Assembly Nomination

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

Town of Saugerties Supervisor A. Michael Schovel — claiming that the "only way to achieve good government is through hard work and honesty" — today announced his intention to seek the Democratic nomination for the 101st Assembly District race.

Maurice Hinchey, a fellow Saugerties Democrat, has also announced he will seek the Democratic nomination. Incumbent Assemblyman H. Clark

Bell (R-Woodstock) has said he will run for reelection.

Schovel is serving his fourth term as Saugerties Supervisor. He was elected easily in 1967, 1969 and 1971. Denied the Democratic endorsement in 1973, he ran as an independent, and won again.

At a press conference at the Gov. Clinton Hotel this morning, Schovel admitted he might have made a mistake by abandoning the Democratic Party last year. "I ran as an independent," he said, "but my heart was still with the Democratic Party. I know that some party members will hold that against me. I made a mistake and hope that I'll be able to rectify it."

From there, Schovel began a frank assessment of his two opponents, the issues he will address during the campaign, and the current political climate in Ulster County and the nation.

"I don't think anybody can kick about Clark Bell's record in Albany," said Schovel, "but I think I can do a better job." He admitted he "might not accomplish as much as Bell in can say is that I'll fight hard," and said he will never support haul of the welfare laws.

Schovel conceded that Hinchey might "have an advantage" because he (Hinchey) knows many county convention on June 7, he probably will not resort to a primary fight for fear of splitting the party.

Schovel promised that during the campaign he will call for elimination of many of the expensive and ineffective legislative committees that are formed each year; will propose a reduction in the expense accounts for elected officials; and won't tolerate "partonage jobs" for unqualified persons.

Schovel termed the state pension system "grossly unfair"

Agreeing with a characterization that he is a "conservative," Schovel said the "biggest cancer in our country is 'crime' for able-bodied people claimed that as much as can be expected the Watergate issue to have an appreciable effect on the local campaign.

He said he favors capital punishment for premeditated murder; is strongly opposed to abortion; and supports strong Blue Laws that will retain Sunday as "a day of rest."

Opening Statements Made In Taxi Driver Murder Trial

By LYNN MULANEY

KINGSTON

The prosecution will call 18 witnesses in the murder trial that began in Ulster County Court earlier this week in which George Carter, 21, of Newburgh is charged with the alleged robbery-murder on Aug. 28, 1973 of Edward Pascoe, 64, a Newburgh taxi driver in Marlboro.

A jury of eight women and four men plus a man and woman alternate were sworn in mid-afternoon Thursday after two and one-half days of jury selection.

In opening statements, Assistant District Attorney Michael Kavanagh claimed the defendant has "admitted to being involved in the robbery but denies involvement in the homicide." Kavanagh said he will prove that Carter was not where he said he was at the time of the murder.

Kavanagh said he would call as witness, a person who saw Carter in front of Mason's Department Store in Newburgh on the day of the murder.

He said he would call another cab driver who knew Pascoe and who saw Carter and a 15-year-old companion get into Pascoe's taxi in Newburgh on the Main Street where the department store is located.

Kavanagh said he would provide witnesses who would testify that Carter and his accomplice were armed with a pistol and a knife, that another taxi driver refused to take them to the Balmville School to which they sought transportation and that Pascoe did take them in his cab.

"Somewhere en route," Kavanagh contended, "either the defendant or his companion threatened him with a gun" and robbed him of about $60. The assistant district attorney said he will prove that Pascoe was "tied and bound to a tree and his throat was cut so severely it nearly severed his head."

Carter's counsel Barry Lippman objected to Kavanagh's statement as to the condition of Pascoe's head, conceding however that there "was a slaying and that it was brutal."

Presiding Judge Raymond J. Mino noted the objection, allowing Kavanagh to continue.

Kavanagh said he will attempt to reconstruct the events of the day of the murder. He will call as witnesses, a taxi dispatcher, the last person to talk with Pascoe before he took Carter and his companion on the journey to Ulster County. He will also call various members of the police as well as a man who was hunting in a wooded area and stumbled on the body of Pascoe where he was found in Marlboro. A pathologist will also be called to testify as will forensic and fingerprint experts.

Lippman's opening statement was brief saying he will comment on the evidence in closing statements.

Lippman said Carter has entered a plea of not guilty to all elements of the charges.

He said "the question is not whether Carter was with the 15-year-old companion on the day of the murder and the question is not whether Carter was in front of Mason's Department Store. . . That doesn't prove he was involved in a homicide.

"George Carter told the police certain things," Lippman said, "that he did not participate in the murder."

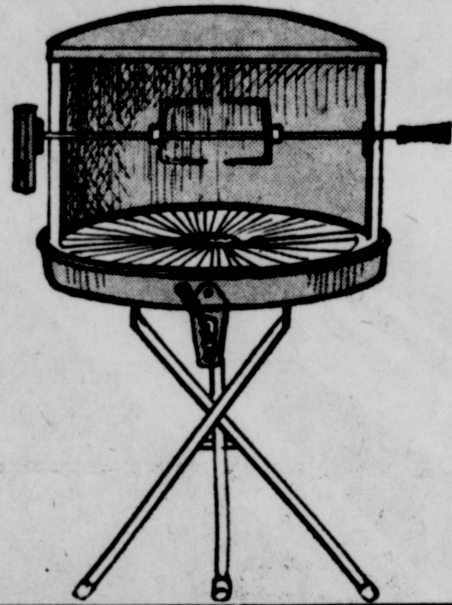

"I ask you not to find George Carter guilty of something he didn't do just because he was in front of Mason's Department Store. . . That doesn't prove he was involved in a homicide."

"I ask you to keep an open mind," Lippman concluded. The trial resumed in Ulster County Court today.

Savago Answers Charge

NEW PALTZ

Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, said Thursday that state law mandates that all excess license plates held by the local County Clerk must be stored in a locked vault until they are distributed to the public.

The New Paltz Village Board Monday night — in the form of a resolution that was passed unanimously — charged that Savago kept New Paltz designated license plates (NEP, NPN, NPL etc.) locked in a vault in the County Office Building and dispensed them only to a chosen few applicants. The resolution was sponsored by trustee John Logan.

"The County Clerk is simply complying with the law," said Savago. "The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles requires that the plates be kept locked in a vault."

Savago also said that Logan's wife was given a New Paltz plate when she asked for one last week. "But she refused to pay the mandatory $3 transfer fee required by changing license plates," said Savago. "When she was told the fee was mandatory, she became abusive to county employees working in the motor vehicle office. She was never refused a New Paltz plate."

AP Analysis: Jaworski Feud

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon always has had trouble getting along with Watergate special prosecutors.

He didn't want one hired in the first place, yielding reluctantly after the scandals forced a staff and Cabinet shakeup.

His firing of Archibald Cox stirred the first serious moves for impeachment.

Now the White House is feuding with Leon Jaworski over who is boss.

During the House impeachment inquiry the President cannot afford any renewal of the crisis that came when Cox went.

Nixon's spokesmen and lawyer say there has been no consideration of firing Jaworski, although circumstances now are similar to those that led the President to get rid of Cox.

The central issue now, as then, is simple: Can the special prosecutor take the President to court when the President tells him not to?

In each case, the controversy flared over the demands of the prosecutor for access to White House tape recordings the President said he would not yield.

Cox was fired after vowing to press in court for recordings of nine presidential conversations, in defiance of Nixon's instructions to drop the case and settle instead for summaries for the tapes.

But three days later, on Oct. 23, 1973, facing a wave of impeachment demands and an adverse public reaction, the President yielded and agreed to turn over the tapes.

Within a week, arrangements had been made for a new special prosecutor.

Now, up against another tapes controversy with Jaworski, Nixon's lawyers say he is prepared to contest to the Supreme Court a subpoena for recordings of 64 conversations.

Jaworski already has won in U.S. District Court. Jaworski complained there, and to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which backed him, about the contention of the White House that he could not properly pursue the subpoena case in court because it involves a dispute between two officials of the executive branch.

Jaworski said that interpretation of his standing would make a farce out of the special prosecutor's office.

Federal courts have held that by voluntary agreement and Justice Department regulations, the administration has given the office of the special prosecutor a unique measure of independence with the force of law behind it.

The edited Watergate transcripts recount early discussions of a special prosecutor, and Nixon's opposition to the idea. "Now the difficulty with the special prosecutor — it gets a guy into the (expletive deleted) thing," Nixon said on April 15, 1973. "First it's a reflection — it's sort of admitting mea culpa for our whole system of justice. I don't want to do that."

But 15 days later, shuffling the Cabinet to install Elliot L. Richardson as attorney general, Nixon authorized him to appoint a special prosecutor. Congress was pressing for one. Richardson chose Cox.

The White House always viewed Democrat Cox with suspicion, aides there contending that he was a partisan out to get Nixon.

Jaworski is a Democrat, too, but from Houston not Harvard. His prosecution of the case has led him, like Cox, to demand in court material the President does not want to provide.

★ ★ ★ Nixon Rating Shows Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A nationwide survey taken by pollster Louis Harris earlier this month shows that President Nixon's job rating performance has increased slightly in the eyes of the American public, despite the release of the Watergate transcripts.

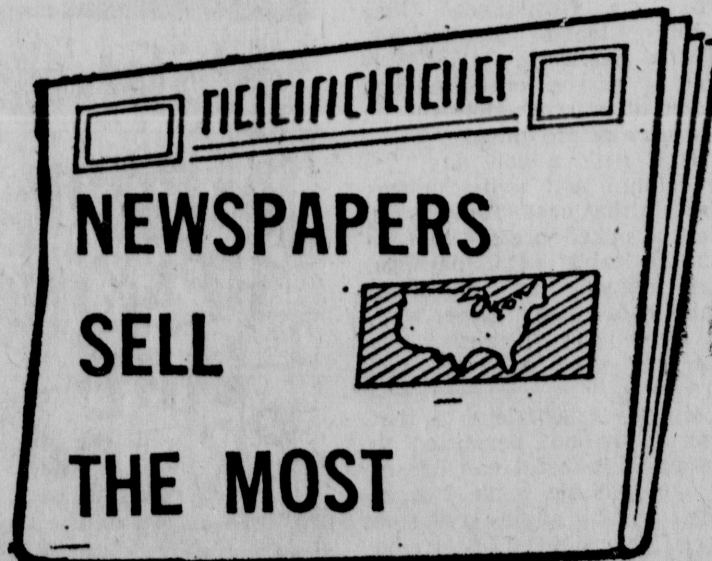

The Harris survey, taken May 7 and 8, gave Nixon a 32 per cent positive rating on performance of his job, a one point increase over March and April. The survey was taken one week after Nixon made public transcripts of tape recorded conversations between himself and top aides on Watergate.

George Gallup, another public opinion analyst, released his latest survey which showed that 25 per cent of the public approved of Nixon's performance, a drop of one percentage point from April samplings. Gallup's survey was conducted May 10 through 13.

Harris said the major reason that the President's job rating has stayed above 30 per cent is because the public believes he is proficient in foreign affairs matters.

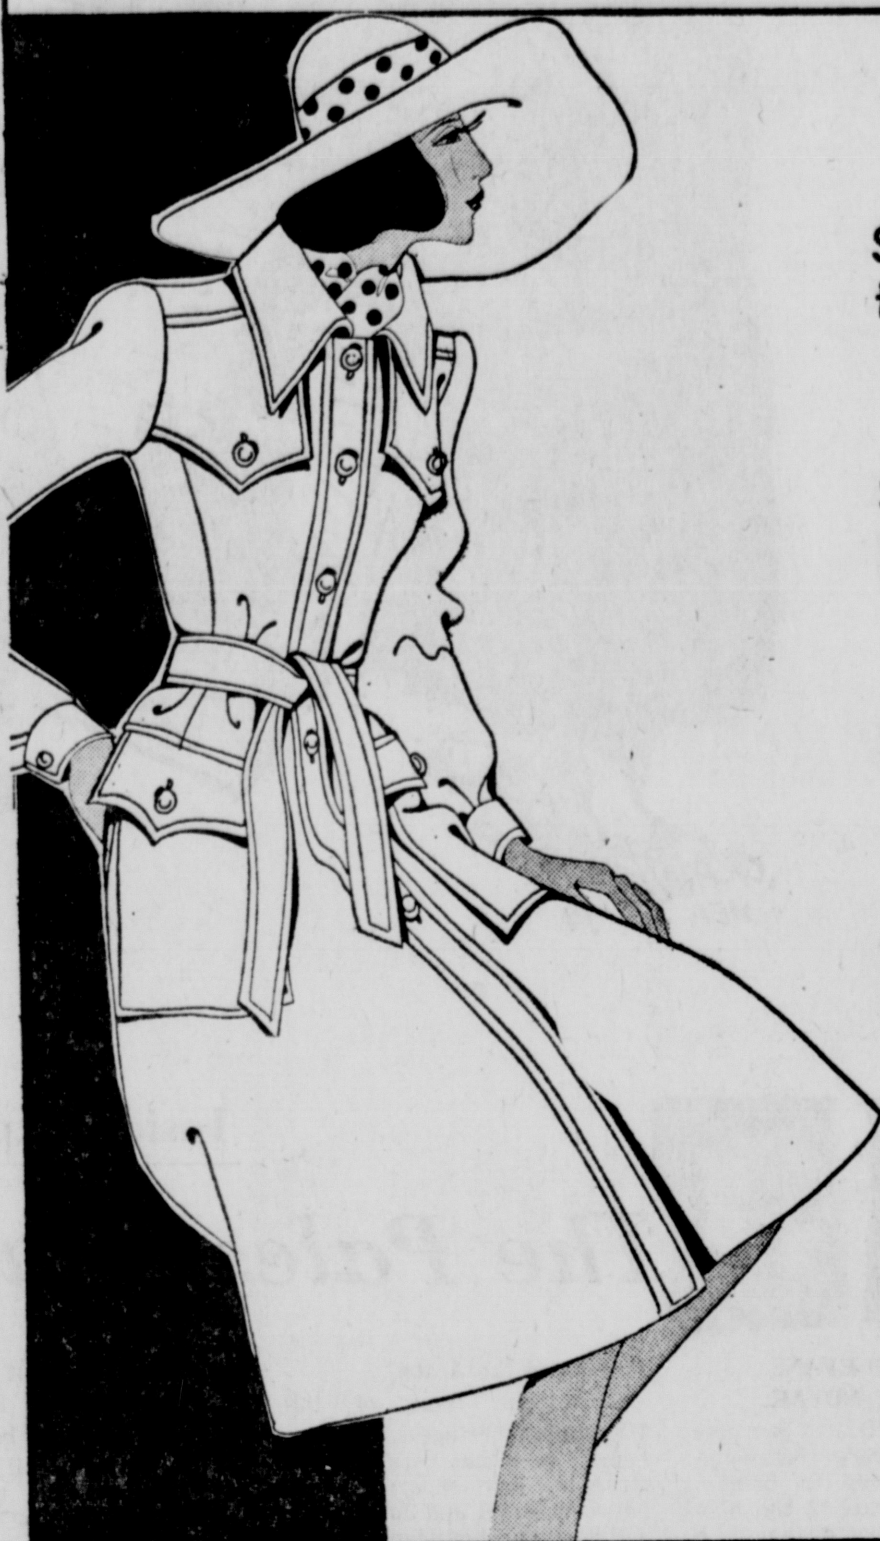

According to Harris, 66 per cent of those questioned gave Nixon a positive rating on foreign matters, a 3 per cent increase over February.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 24, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has told aides that he believes the national outrage over the White House transcripts has died down and that he had now weathered the worst of the storm. Sources privy to the President's private conversations say he feared for awhile that the crescendo of criticism might become overpowering. He felt the demands for his resignation, which came pouring in from Republican leaders and conservative newspapers, were "hysterical." Ironically, the President credits Democratic leaders with abating the storm. He had frankly expected them to join in the clamor for his resignation, his aides confided. Instead, House Speaker Carl Albert, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Senate Democratic whip Robert Byrd spoke out against resignation and broke the momentum.

This had the dramatic effect, the President told aides, of lawmen calming a mob at the jailhouse door. Nixon is grateful to the opposition leaders for preventing Congress from becoming "a runaway grand jury" on the eve of the impeachment hearings. He has confidence that the responsible leaders of Congress will now keep the impeachment proceedings on an even course.

VIETNAM SPENDING: The Vietnam war may have disappeared from the front pages, but the American taxpayers are still financing South Vietnam's military effort.

Two unreleased studies disclose that the United States is now paying 86 per cent of the cost of maintaining the Saigon regime and that it may be dependent upon American aid for the rest of this century.

President Nixon is asking for $2.4 billion in military and economic aid for Saigon for the coming year. This amounts to 32 per cent of the total U.S. aid for the entire world. Counting Laos and Cambodia, the embattled peninsula will get close to half of all U.S. aid.

The studies were conducted by the Indochina Resource Center, a private research group which keeps a close watch on Southeast Asian affairs, and by NARMIC, a project of The American Friends Service Committee.

South Vietnam's economy, warn the studies, "in the manner of a heroin user, is addicted to American aid." They quote a confidential World Bank study, which concludes Saigon will still require $770 million a year in 1980 and $300 million to $450 million in 1990. Looking beyond 1990, the World Bank claims "Saigon will continue to remain highly dependent on foreign aid."

In short, the studies contend that the Saigon government is an "artificial state," kept afloat mainly by the generosity of the American taxpayers.

The biggest drain on the South Vietnamese economy, charge the studies, is corruption. "Certainly more than a few (Saigon) subjects are millionaires or nearly so," the documents state, and "there are probably several hundred" who together could pay the government's bills "each year for a decade hence."

These South Vietnamese profiteers are able to escape heavy taxation. Consequently, state the reports, "indigenous Vietnamese tax revenues have not any time in the last decade produced more than 15 per cent of the total resources spent to sustain" the government.

CLOSING COSTS: Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has been trying to lower real estate closing costs, a racket that costs the homebuyers $14 billion a year.

But he has been outmaneuvered in the backrooms by Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., the handsome banker's son who seems to take his signals from the counting houses.

As private correspondence between the two antagonists show, Proxmire thought he could bring his subcommittee around to forcing the Housing and Urban Development Department to crack down on closing costs.

But Brock wanted to take this power away from the government, leaving homeowners to the tender mercies of title companies, title searchers and insurers, real estate lawyers and others who profit from high closing costs.

Brock offered some reforms in a double play that would also strip the government of its authority to regulate closing costs. Enticed by the reforms, even such consumer men as Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., and Bob Packwood, R-Ore., supported Brock's maneuver.

Meanwhile, in the House, Rep. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo., was so upset over a parallel move by Rep. Robert Stephens, D-Ga., to fleece homebuyers that she wrote personal letters to members of the House Banking Committee. "It would be extremely unwise," she pleaded with them, to accept the Stephens measure.

FOOTNOTE: Brock insisted to us that he has the best interests of homebuyers, not banks, at heart. Consumer men who voted with Brock said they were getting the best bill possible, under the circumstances.

Inside Report

The Palestinian Question

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's diplomatic coup in bringing Syria and Israel to the brink of military disengagement on the Golan Heights now confronts Israel with by far the toughest of its political problems: dealing directly with the hated Palestinians. Up to now outgoing Prime Minister Golda Meir and almost her entire government have refused to face up to the Palestinian question. Indeed, some Jewish leaders here are so concerned about his blind spot in Israel's otherwise commendable steps toward a political settlement that they have very privately — warned the Israeli government to change its tune.

Instead of dealing directly with political leaders of a full generation of Palestinian refugees, such as Yasser Arafat, Mrs. Meir's government is still toying with a gimmick: settling the explosive West Bank question with King Hussein of Jordan. Kissinger himself has taken secret actions to knock any such Israeli-Jordan deal out of his grand design for a political settlement of 25 years of warfare between Israel and the Arabs.

Since the issue of the Palestinian refugees is the heart of the Arab-Israeli struggle, any separate deal between Israel and Jordan for a Palestinian homeland on the West Bank of the Jordan River would have only one result: immediate intensification of murderous Palestinian attacks on Israeli citizens and even more murderous reprisals by Israel. Yet, inside Israel itself, the prospect of a truly Palestinian state on the West Bank of the Jordan River (seized by Israel from Jordan in the six-day war of 1967) is still viewed by most Israelis as unthinkable. The primordial fear of attempting to coexist with an independent Palestinian state is too deeply ingrained.

That fear alone has been a major cause of Israel's reluctance to enter any serious political deal with the Arabs: at the end of such a deal lies the dreaded Palestinian state. For example, even before last week's murderous terrorist attack on Ma'alot gravely intensified it, the popular Israeli mood leaned against a Syrian deal.

Thus, some experts here are convinced that the Israeli-

Syrian deal about to be consummated by Kissinger would never have been permitted by Israeli public opinion had it not been for the extremely harsh reprisals Israel took last week to avenge the murder of 26 Israelis at Ma'alot by Palestinian terrorists. As of last Sunday night, that retaliation had killed an estimated 80 Palestinians and wounded 200 more, many of them women and children just as innocent as the Israeli schoolchildren slaughtered at Ma'alot.

Without such a deadly reprisal, it is doubtful that Golda Meir's embattled caretaker government could have had enough negotiating freedom at home to agree on the Kissinger-drafted Syrian deal. Popular fury at the Israeli government for failing to protect exposed Israeli border towns and for its handling of the Ma'alot disaster had reached an unprecedented peak. The Syrian deal calling for a major Israeli pullback on the Golan Heights was on the verge of being swept away by citizen demand inside Israel.

The violence of the revenge thus had a political impact within Israel of immense importance: it permitted the weak Meir government to continue Syrian negotiations despite Ma'alot.

But it did nothing to move Israel any closer to the vital question of confronting the Palestinian issue. To the contrary, the cycle of Palestinian atrocities and lethal Israeli reprisals is making each successive Kissinger move harder than the last.

The first move was disengagement of Israel and Egyptian forces along the Suez Canal; then came the Golan Heights separation; and next will be the full-fledged international conference. Headed by the U.S. and the Soviet Union, in Geneva.

Near the top of the Geneva agenda will be the Palestinian question and the West Bank. Some of Israel's most understanding and sympathetic friends in the U.S. are sending this warning to Tel Aviv and Jerusalem: Israel must at last confront this issue head-on. That means agreeing to a Palestinian presence in Geneva with Kissinger in the leading role as Israeli-Palestinian mediator.

Anything less than that, these Israeli backers are saying, is a one-way ticket to more terrorism, more murder and more full-scale warfare.

Meanwhile, in the House, Rep. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo., was so upset over a parallel move by Rep. Robert Stephens, D-Ga., to fleece homebuyers that she wrote personal letters to members of the House Banking Committee. "It would be extremely unwise," she pleaded with them, to accept the Stephens measure.

Airline's Safety Step

Pan American World Airways has taken a safety step which other airlines would do well to emulate. Pan Am's entire fleet is to be equipped with a "ground proximity warning system" which does what the name implies—warns the pilot, in time for corrective action, that the aircraft is getting too close to terrain.

The system differs in one important respect from usual altitude-warning systems; it does not simply tell the crew how high the plane is, but warns that the plane is on a dangerous flight path. The warning is unmistakable. If the plane is too low on a landing approach, say, or speeding toward a mountain slope, the device emits the "Whoop! Whoop!" used on ambulances, gives a spoken "Pull up!" order and flashes the "Terrain" light.

The heart of the system is a computer linked with the airplane's radio altimeter. The computer is programmed to alert the pilot in time to climb out of harm's way. Had such equipment been functioning aboard the Pan Am plane which smashed into a mountain on Bali in late April, killing 107 persons, the crash might have been averted.

Pan American is the first major United States airline to undertake equipping all its planes with the newly developed ground proximity warning system. Other airlines should follow its lead in adopting this or a similar safety device with the least possible delay.

BERRY'S WORLD

© 1974 by NEA, Inc. Jim Berry
"Stop yellin' and hollerin' when I'm trying to serve. This isn't world team tennis!"

The most neglected of all articles of furniture, is, of course, the bed. Humans spend one-third of their lives in beds, seeking repose, ecstasy, the anesthesia of unconsciousness or yielding to the exhaustion of illness. A person 60 years of age has given 20 of them to an item which measures about six-and-a-half feet by five, and which squeaks.

Getting into bed has never been a problem. I slide between cool sheets in a T shirt and, in the past decade, have missed the edge of the mattress but once, falling on the family dog. He changed his bedroom from the rug to the bathroom scale, where he emits noisy sighs and drops his head on the treadle, causing a loud clanking of the weighing arm.

I have an enormous appreciation of the bed. It is the adult substitute for playground swings and monkey bars; a battery charger; a place of enormous life and the slow mists of death.

My problem is arising. Some pop out of bed, en-dangerous somnolent blood vessels. These are the rise-and-shiners. I do not get out of bed, symbolically speaking. I resurrect.

Lifting my woolly head to a sitting posture requires thought, decisions and fake machismo. At this point, my feet hunt for Indian moccasins which are never where I left them. The walk to the bathroom for a.m. ablutions can be likened only to watching Dracula revive Dr. Faust 300 years after his death.

I realize that much of the world has been conditioned by the industrial complex to emerge from the rack at 7 a.m. or 7:30, humming old standards like Bach's Funeral Mass. In my case, the night light is extinguished at 2 a.m., and I arise, or am resurrected, by an insistent bell at 10 a.m.

Any personal friend who phones before 10 does not remain a friend. At 10, even the electric toothbrush sounds like a jackhammer on concrete. If the dog is still sleeping, I give him a tender boot in the pants so that he will understand that when the king is awake, no dog sleeps.

One of the most dismal aspects of awakening — to me — is to learn that all of the 200 bones in my body have separated during sleep and are not on speaking terms. Everything hurts. This includes hair.

Donning a robe is a triumph of tolerance. A robe can reduce a man to a whimpering wreck. If it also has a belt, the stomach joins the bones in pulsing protest.

The trip from the bedroom to the dining room might be understood by Sir Edmund Hillary, who climbed the last 10,000 feet of Everest. The difference between our efforts is that he did it once. He also carried a flag. I am a patriot, but not a nut.

The breakfast table, especially on weekends when the girls are home, is sheer anguish. Kelly, who looks ravishing in slacks and sports shirt, chirps about what a beautiful world it is. Confidently, she doesn't feel that lively but, as long as mothers insist on competing with daughters, they must hide pain under spurious smiles.

Kathi reads and scratches. My kids never heard of cereals. They will warm up last night's beef stew and devour it with jelly tarts. Karen is always dressed for a wedding. She comes to breakfast in dress, panty hose, shoes, slip, blue-figured dress and — hold your breath — a floppy straw hat the size of a flying saucer.

First under cheek. I look out the French doors past the swimming pool at the lagoon. I do not see them; I dream. It doesn't matter what, so long as it is more pleasant than the horrors which assailed me while I slept.

Within an hour — four cups of coffee and six cigarettes. With staggering self-assurance, I find out what day it is, and why. I consult the appointments calendar for columns. On order from my wife, my mouth opens like a pelican and I ingest an assortment of vitamins.

I ask Kelly how these small, colored objects know exactly where to go, and she says, "Don't worry. They know." There is the additional question of whether they know what to do when they get there, but I have been caught on that carousel before.

By 11:30, I am wide awake, prepared to say no to any suggestion. If it is a golfing day, my fellow agonizers — Milton Goldstand, Gene Kroll, Jocko McCormack, Frank Sacchetti, Mike Morgan — arrive for coffee and a bit of dolorous dialogue on the state of the union.

If it isn't a golf day, it's a column and write-the-book day. In that case, Tom Ferris, an unfrocked press agent, is at the table with, perhaps, Len Bazell, an unfrocked rabbi-cum-author. Either way, it does not brighten the sun nor start a crisp, cool breeze.

My one true friend is that bed. I am not permitted to return to it, but I can dream of approaching it at 2 a.m. Then I will again slide between the sheets. My friend and I will exchange squeaks. We understand each other . . .

Justice Department Uses Wiretaps: Saxbe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Forbidding government wiretapping is something he can "live with," but it would hamper Justice Department investigations, says Attorney General William B. Saxbe.

Testifying before a Senate subcommittee on the subject of wiretapping without warrants, Saxbe vowed, "No American citizen can be wiretapped anywhere in the world without approval from me."

He would not say how many taps are now in effect, but Saxbe said that only the Justice Department, among government agencies, may and does eavesdrop.

Saxbe said that under recent court rulings on electronic surveillance, President Nixon has authority to request wiretaps only in national security matters organized and financed by a foreign power.

He said Congress "could do away with all electronic surveillance" and he could "live with it." But he said it would put the Justice Department "at some disadvantage" in its investigations.

Saxbe, who appeared with FBI Director Clarence Kelley, spent an hour and a half in a closed meeting with subcommittee members who unsuccessfully tried to get information on the number of wiretaps currently in effect.

Saxbe said that information, including names and transcripts, had been given to the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on the FBI, which, he said, had voted that "We can't give this information to any other committee."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, told Saxbe "you have no authority to deny us this information." The attorney general conceded he was caught "in the midst of a jurisdictional fight."

The attorney general also said that he has never been able to find out for sure whether there had been taps on congressmen by other agencies. "If there were, it has not been done by the Justice Department," Saxbe said.

Nixon Has Disclosed Too Much: St. Clair

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer says anyone reading the White House tape transcripts could not conclude that Nixon is hiding anything. In fact, said James D. St. Clair, Thursday, "he has disclosed far too much."

St. Clair, perhaps hinting at Nixon's defense in the courts or before the House Judiciary Committee, also said Nixon is "subject to the law when he is no longer President."

"Anyone who tries to apply common ordinary criminal law to impeachment proceedings is making a serious mistake in my judgment."

St. Clair faced a deadline today for appealing a federal court ruling that the White House must turn over 64 tapes subpoenaed by Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

He also had to reply to subpoenas signed by another federal judge for the White House files of former aides John D. Ehrlichman and Charles Colson, defendants in the Ellsberg break-in case.

Asked at a news conference on the White House lawn Thursday if he was suggesting that the President should have "more equal justice" than someone else, St. Clair said: "Let's suppose for a moment that he were to be removed from office or that he were to resign — and believe me that I have no information that he intends to resign ever — he then is subject to the law like anyone else."

"But as long as he is the President, he represents the executive branch of the government and he has a duty to maintain that branch not only for his administration but for later administrations. He is subject to the law when he is no longer the President."

St. Clair also said that the disputes over what potential evidence Nixon relinquishes will be finally decided by public opinion.

"I think basically what's going to have to settle this is what the American people think," said St. Clair.

"If anyone were to read those transcripts from cover to cover he could not conclude that the President is hiding anything. I submit, if anything, he has disclosed far too much."

$5.9 Million Spent On LBJ's Property

WASHINGTON (AP) — While one House committee says federal expenditures reached $5.9 million on former President Lyndon B. Johnson's property, another has promised close scrutiny for all new presidential expenditures.

The House Government Operations Committee said Thursday that most of the funds for the Johnson properties were spent on security facilities. The committee had disclosed earlier that $17.1 million was spent on homes used by President Nixon, also mainly in the name of security.

The committee said the Department of Defense and the White House Communications Agency spent an estimated $3,573,000 for communications support in connection with the LBJ Ranch in Texas.

The $5.9 million also includes $770,000 for Johnson's Austin, Tex., office; $15,000 for installation and repair of Secret Service facilities at Johnson's Haywood Ranch where he occasionally went boating; and $34,000 for work at a hangar on the LBJ ranch "to accommodate news conferences, television broadcasts and the entertainment of foreign dignitaries."

Also included were $29,400 for security lighting, guardhouses and trailers, $3,400 for stone walls and fences and $4,300 for the Office of Management and Budget, and the White House on notice that a bill providing for new presidential expenses faces rough going on the House floor. Local, Woodstock LWVs ... Merger Is Possible

TOWN OF ULSTER was formed to work out the details of a formal merger. The possible merger of the Kingston and Woodstock League of Women Voters organizations will be put to a vote Monday, June 3 at a special meeting of members at Ulster Academy. status in 1960. Initially one league was contemplated but due to the larger number of women who expressed interest at that time, the state organization recommended that two separate local leagues be formed. However, as the program responsibilities of each grew over the years, it appeared that by pooling leadership resources through merger greater efficiency would be achieved.

The proposed slate of officers for the new organization is headed by Lissa Ganter, now president of the LWV of Woodstock. Also nominated is Emily Johnson, first vice-president for national programs; Renee Sachs, second vice-president for state programs; and Sara Mulligan, third vice-president for local programs. Polly Flacco has been nominated for secretary and Mary Littleton for treasurer. Nominated for the remaining board positions are Dallas Willing, bulletin; Barbara Lockhart, membership; Lee Cane, voter service; Dorothy Vilches, public relations; and four chairmen heading the new units.

Baggage X-ray Machines Are 'Leaking'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said today that 68 baggage X-ray machines at 48 airports across the country were found to be leaking radiation in the past month.

The machines were all ordered turned off as the defects were uncovered, a spokesman said, and about 80 per cent of them have been repaired.

In all there are 190 machines in use at 52 airports, meaning that only four airports have machines which were not found defective.

Unemployment Rate Drops In New York

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Unemployment in April dropped one-tenth of a per cent to 6.1 per cent in New York State, meaning that 2,200 fewer persons were jobless than in the previous month.

Figures released by the State Department of Labor Thursday showed 459,000 persons out of work, compared with 465,300 or 5.5 per cent in April, 1973.

The total employed in the state was 7,009,100, up 52,900 from March and 21,300 from April of a year earlier.

Department unemployment figures for the state's major industrial areas were:

Albany-Schenectady-Troy — 5.3 per cent in April, 1973, and 278,200 or 5.9 per cent in March.

Poughkeepsie — 2.800 or 3.0 per cent compared with 2,600 or 2.9 per cent in April, 1973, and 3,000 or 3.2 per cent in March.

Greater Rochester — 17,700 or 4.1 per cent compared with 15,200 or 3.6 per cent in April, 1973, and 18,100 or 4.2 per cent in March.

Syracuse — 13,300 or 4.8 per cent compared with 12,400 or 4.6 per cent in April, 1973, and 13,700 or 5.0 per cent in March.

Utica — 8,300 or 6.6 per cent compared with 8,200 or 6.6 per cent in April, 1973, and 8,400 or 6.8 per cent in March.

Buffalo — 48,400 or 8.9 per cent compared with 39,500 or 7.4 per cent in April, 1973, and 51,600 or 9.5 per cent in March.

Elmira — 2,700 or 6.4 per cent compared with 2,500 or 6.1 per cent in April, 1973, and 2,800 or 6.8 per cent in March.

Metropolitan New York and Long Island — 289,300 or 6.1 per cent compared with 248,500 or 6.8 per cent in March.

Settlement In New York News Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — The printers' union and the city's three major newspapers reached a tentative contract settlement Thursday night, resolving a 14-month-old dispute over automation and wages and ending a 17-day work stoppage at the Daily News.

Both sides called the settlement a "model agreement" and said it would be copied by industries throughout the country.

The settlement will allow the newspapers to introduce full automation into their composing rooms while at the same time guaranteeing lifetime jobs for fulltime printers, with job reduction through attrition.

There are reportedly provisions for parttime printers.

Sources close to the talks said the contract would extend to 1984, far beyond the two-year proposal originally submitted by the publishers, with wages and other areas to be renegotiated periodically.

Bertram A. Powers, president of Typographical Union No. 6, said after a 9 1/2 hour bargaining session that the settlement would give "a free hand" to the publishers to introduce automation equipment and "at the same time, provide real job security for the printers."

Several Electric Utilities in Financial Difficulty

NEW YORK (AP) — Faced with rapidly increased costs for fuel and a continuing need for money to expand, some of the nation's major electric utilities have run into a serious lack of funds.

'Lasers For the Butcher'

CHICAGO (AP) — One way to slow the skyrocketing price of food may be to give butchers laser beams instead of knives, says a marketing professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"The era of cheap food in America is at an end," Dr. Gordon F. Bloom of MIT said in an interview after addressing a conference on world hunger.

He said innovative measures such as cutting meat with laser beams rather than knives may be a few years away, but that such moves designed to increase efficiency in the food industry are among the few remaining ways to stem rising food costs.

He said attempts to unionize what used to be low-paid, migratory field hands, 15 to 20 per cent increases in retail labor costs and consumer and environmental legislation had combined with increased marketing costs and higher farm income to drive food prices up 20 per cent in 1973.

Bloom said supermarkets in particular have been slow to develop new technology to lower labor costs which, he said, take 50 cents of every food dollar spent after the product leaves the farm.

Supermarket operations, except for the self-service aspect, are essentially unchanged from the corner grocery store that they began to replace 25 years ago, he said.

The average wage rate among employees from cashiers and stockboys to managers is more than $4 an hour in the supermarket, Bloom said.

"People don't realize this is a high-wage industry. In a few years, it's going to be $6. Yet where is the change in technology? The young grocery clerk still loads shelves by hand."

Bloom suggested that the industry make a cooperative effort to eliminate inefficiencies such as those he said exist in packaging and shipping. He also suggested new ways of cooperation to stimulate innovative cost-saving ideas.

"For example," he said, "Why is it necessary to cut meat from a bone with a knife or a saw? Why can't the butcher use a laser or a sonic beam?"

"There's no panacea for rising food prices. But there are a lot of little things that could have a cumulative effect. The food business is a business of decimal points and an accumulation of a lot of small things ultimately leads to high prices."

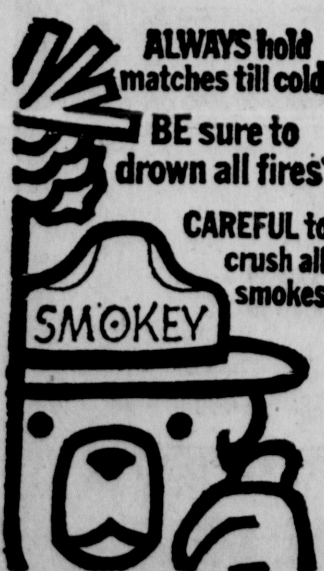

Registration Is Slated

ELLENVILLE — The Ellenville Elementary School will conduct its Kindergarten registration and screening program during the week of June 3, at the Reformed Church, Canal Street.

The purpose of the program is to identify children who have problems in hearing, vision, speech and motor control. The information gained during the screening will help the school personnel evaluate a child's strengths and weaknesses in areas that are felt to be essential to successful school experiences.

Parents should bring proof of age and inoculations for DPT, polio, Rubella and measles. Children should attend dressed in play clothes.

Children must be five years of age by Dec. 1, 1974 in order to enter kindergarten in September. Those who have a child eligible for kindergarten in September of this year and who have not received a letter from the elementary school should contact the school and arrange for an appointment.

The weak financial position some face was dramatized recently when Consolidated Edison, New York City's power supplier, omitted its regular 45-cent quarterly dividend. Con Ed said it needed cash for escalating operating expenses and heavy capital spending this year, and so did not pay the normally guaranteed dividend which is the major attraction for buying utility stocks.

The incident, and fears of others like it, quickly focused attention on the industry's ailing finances. Stock prices and credit ratings plunged. Unless the securities market improves, the worst trouble may lie ahead, analysts say. And ultimately the consumer may have to pay even higher electric bills, or face potential brownouts.

The Dow-Jones average of 15 of the nation's largest publicly-held power companies has declined nearly 30 per cent since January, to its lowest point in 15 years.

Energy problems and inflation triggered the utilities' crisis. The price of foreign oil quadrupled last year, and consumer conservation efforts and higher bills lowered expected sales by utilities by 5 per cent in the first quarter this year. Combined, they were enough to send first quarter earnings plummeting, in some cases as much as 81 per cent below last year.

Although much of the inflation in fuel prices will be recovered through increased bills to consumers, the first quarter figures were enough to shock investors into taking a hard look at the companies' financial positions.

Within the past week, the high interest costs and the coolness investors have shown toward new utility bonds has caused several companies, including Detroit Edison and Cleveland Edison, to delay or scrap completely plans for new bond issues.

Detroit Edison canceled 18 per cent of its planned five-year capital expansion program, warning the action could "effect service within several years."

As a last resort, utilities have started to rely more and more on bank borrowings, where the cost of funds to businesses now runs in excess of 11 1/2 per cent. The Federal Reserve reports that utilities are among the heaviest corporate borrowers in power deficiencies in the future.

But as credit tightens, analysts say the only solution for raising funds may be increased rates to consumers.

And should those increases not be granted, "the utilities will have no choice but to reduce their spending programs," according to John Ledda, utility analyst with Shields & Co. He said such an action could result in power deficiencies in the future.

Gypsy Moths Spare Ulster . . . So Far

NEW PALTZ In New Paltz, said Thursday The Department of Environmental Conservation's annual gypsy moth suppression program, which involves aerial spraying in carefully selected areas, got underway this week, but no Ulster County areas are on the DEC spray list.

Paul Keller, regional forester at DEC Region 3 Headquarters which nobody had the answers. The criteria for DEC spraying—the department uses Sevin, a non-persistent pesticide—are that at least 500 egg masses per acre be found in areas of recreation and special use, forested communities, or high value forests which might otherwise undergo their third defoliation in a row.

DES Commissioner James L. Biggane, in a press release on the program, said, "Our goal is minimal application. We spray as small an area as possible and with as light an application of pesticide as will do the job."

He stated that aerial spraying was more efficient than ground spraying, which often requires a concentration 10 to 20 times as high as aerial application. The commissioner stressed that non-target areas, such as open fields and water, will be avoided.

Gypsy moths are a serious defoliator of hardwoods. The DEC says they are spreading westward in New York State. About 30,000 acres in four counties have been selected for spraying this year. Selected areas are in Suffolk County, 17,015 acres; Sullivan County, 9,810 acres; Orange County, 2,975 acres; and Delaware County, 200 acres.

No land is to be sprayed without the landowner's permission. Keller said the DEC gypsy moth programs of recent years have been designed to "meet the problem only where it really exists." His own hope, Keller said, was for the limited spraying program to allow a population of natural predators of the gypsy moth to be maintained, with natural controls of the pest eventually taking over.

All efforts, and the DEC had made strong one in the mid-1960s, to wipe the gypsy moth out have failed, Keller said. "We've got to look at the gypsy moth now as a native insect," said Keller. "We've now got to learn to live with it."

Signs of Protest in Accord

By WADE BURKHART

THE McNamaras and the Taylors, who live in the Worley development in Accord, have their signs back up. The signs say "Do Not Buy in this Development Until You Talk to One of Us Homeowners."

James and Joan McNamara have some complaints about the home they bought from Worley last summer. In a tour of the house, McNamara pointed out split and turning beams in the cellar, cracked seams along the ceilings, a bathroom sink which is falling off the wall, and a bedroom door which does not work well.

He said the kitchen floor was sinking at one time, but Worley had made some repairs of it. The repairs involve a total of four 2x4s, and McNamara questioned its permanence.

In addition, their water was judged "unsatisfactory" last February after testing by the Ulster County Department of Health, they complain of a "human waste dump" behind their home, and some of their yard is washing away, which they blame on a Worley grading job.

Worley, contacted Thursday, declined to comment, other than to caution a reporter about what he wrote, and to say he would "say his piece" in court. The warning signs were in the garage "about a week," according to Mrs. McNamara, after they received notice that Worley was seeking an injunction against them.

She said that after the court appearance last Friday, when the case was postponed until June 7, they came home and put the signs out again.

Ronne and Juen Taylor have similar signs on their property, adjacent to the McNamaras.

Their attorney is Alex J. Nirenberg, of Ellenville. Nirenberg said Thursday that the McNamaras and the Taylors were just exercising their rights under the first amendment of the U.S. Constitution. "They have the right to picket in front of his (Worley's) office," said Nirenberg, "so they certainly have the right to put signs on their own property."

He also said that since it was a "let the buyer beware" situation, according to Worley, it should be allowable to talk to the buyer.

The McNamaras said the standard answer from Worley, when they went to him with a complaint, was "Well, you know what you bought."

McNamara said they moved into their house "the end of July, and I've been complaining since the first day I moved in."

The Worley homes are in the $21,000 to $25,000 price range. Nirenberg said "definite legal action" was being planned against Worley by a majority of the homeowners in the Worley subdivision.

Parents Demand 'Normal School'

By CARL GRAHAM

NEW PALTZ Parents of retarded children in the Saugerties school district Thursday night asked the BOCES Board of Education for school facilities "similar to those for normal children."

Dr. Jack L. Roosa, BOCES executive officer, said BOCES could only furnish services on request from component districts and that the initiative would have to come from them.

Robert Mann of the parents' group said they were dissatisfied with the school in Rosendale, rented by BOCES from the Rondout Valley district for special education classes.

"We see good buildings put up for normal children but there is nothing in Rosendale for ours," Mann said.

Eight retarded children from the Saugerties district are being trained outside the district this year, four at Emma Wygant School in Kingston and four at Rosendale.

Wesley Maxwell (Saugerties) said he inspected the three-room Rosendale school. It has no gym, no activity room, pupils must be transported to other places to put on programs, and the play area is small, he said. Teachers are dedicated and have good rapport with pupils "but I feel the facilities are inadequate."

"BOCES only responds to requests from component districts," Roosa said. "The place to begin is with the superintendents."

Arthur Withall (Kingston) disagreed. "I think they should go to the Saugerties school board," he said. "They tell us what to do. If they want it, we would have to furnish it."

George McKen of the parents' group suggested combining the BOCES and Kingston programs, which he said differed considerably.

"If the superintendents want a joint program, BOCES will provide it as soon as possible," ROOSA said. "But it cannot be a BOCES decision—it must be a joint decision of the seven districts and Kingston."

Withall said a joint program might be difficult. "Kingston would have to do away with their programs and teachers," he said. "They will not combine unless they are convinced they can get something better."

Francis Janeczek, president of the Bloomington Homeowners Association, was asked about a letter he sent to BOCES board members. Several members said the letter contained a threat, which Janeczek denied. They asked him to reveal "certain information" referred to in his letter, but he refused.

Contents of the letter were not disclosed, and excerpts given to the Freeman after the meeting did not contain the alleged threat.

In one portion of the excerpt, BHA denies any intention to curtail BOCES programs, but "we will strenuously oppose any attempt to continue with plans on the Bloomington site."

BHA fought an attempt by Kingston contractor John Shults to build a BOCES classroom building on the Taylor Street site in Bloomington and filed a suit to stop construction before it was halted by a State Education Department order.

The BOCES board will hold a special meeting at the New Paltz center at 9 p.m. on June 13 and will hold its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. on June 27, also in New Paltz. The June 27 meeting also will be the board's reorganizational meeting for the 1974-75 year.

Today's Treasures: Syrup Pitchers Hold Value

By JEAN BARNES
The syrup pitcher is a relatively "new" interpretation of one of man's oldest utensils. It wasn't until the mid-19th century that it Syrup pitcher was an innovation of the mid-19th century and soon became a household necessity. The Majolica pitcher is colorful and has its original pewter top.

gained popular acceptance and was considered a necessity in every home.

The syrup pitcher is usually five to eight inches high and is distinguished by a metal top. The pitcher spout was incorporated in the metal top and the lid usually had a thumb piece by which the cover could be raised for pouring.

Recently, I discovered that Beverly Hageman has assembled a small but select collection of syrup pitchers. It is fairly representative of the variety of materials used to manufacture syrup pitchers.

They range from the humble Majolica earthenware to fine handpainted porcelain of Austria. The oldest is an English salt glaze pitcher with graceful Sheffield pewter top, dating from 1840. Two porcelain pitchers have matching plates.

Beverly, wife of an abstractor and mother of five children, started her collection 10 years ago and has built it with discrimination, studying ads, resource materials and corresponding with dealers across the country.

"I've made some wonderful friends through my correspondence," she said. Most of her purchases have been from dealers and she has been careful to receive a guarantee of authenticity with each purchase.

Even with this precaution she expressed doubts about three pitchers as she offered them for inspection. One was in Spanish Lace, another cranberry and opalescent swirl and the third a satin glass of pink shaded to white. "I really think these are reproductions."

"The good ones are scarce and hard to find," and she has several dealers scouting for her. Reproductions are fairly common, she said.

Her prize in pressed pattern glass in Sandwich "Buckle and Star." Others are "Lion," "Cordova," "Currier and Ives," and "Double Ribbon." They represent a rainbow of colors.

Although it's nice to find an old pitcher with its original top, most authorities agree that a broken or missing top does not detract from its desirability. But the patina of old pewter or silverplate adds a look of genuine age not duplicated by the new.

Her pitcher collection has led her into other fields of interest. Recently she started to acquire pieces of the Michigan pattern in pressed pattern glass and is on the lookout for interesting commemorative spoons. For Beverly, the joy is in the creating of a collection more than the owning of one.

Sharon Bahr Is Bride of Russell S. Fallon Jr.

Miss Sharon Elizabeth Bahr, daughter of Charles H. Bahr of 30 Lipton Street, Kingston, and the late Helen Bahr, became the bride of Russell S. Fallon Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell S. Fallon Sr. of 24 Crane Street, Kingston, in First Presbyterian Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Donald Buddie officiated at the ceremony. Miss Edna Merrihew, organist, accompanied Edward C. Baldyga who sang traditional wedding selections. Charles H. Bahr gave his daughter in marriage. She selected a white gown, styled with a short train and an empire waist. Pearls accented the waist, neck and cuffs of the sleeves. A pearl headpiece held her floor length veil which was trimmed with lace. The bride carried a cascade of carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

Miss Carol Bahr of 30 Lipton Street, Kingston, was maid of honor for her sister. Attending the bride were Miss Carol Keinath, Cossackie; Miss Patricia Finch, Kingston; and Mrs. Claudette Zinkow, Saugerties.

The attendants wore rainbow-colored, modified halter gowns of imported boucle jersey. Modified bolero length jackets, styled with tapered sleeves and ruffled cuffs, completed the ensembles. The attendants carried nosegays of pompons, daisies and baby's breath.

Lawrence Bigando of 17 Crane Street, Kingston, was best man. Ushers were Kenneth Krom, Kingston; Justin Auxanio, Ulster Park; and Michael Zinkow, Saugerties.

A reception was given at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

Mrs. Fallon, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by IBM as a secretary. Her husband, an alumnus of KHS, is employed by Nelson Redi Mix Cement, Kingston.

The couple will reside in Kingston.

ATTEND CAPITOL CONFERENCE — Mrs. Paul H. Johnson and Mrs. John F. Hoey, (L.R.) members of the Junior League of Kingston, attended a recent Women's Leadership Day in Washington sponsored by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. During the two day conference, speeches were heard on such topics as allocation policies of the FEO, health, legislation, impeachment and inflation. Lurchon speaker was Anne Armstrong, counselor to the U. S. President. (Freeman photo by Haines)

'Here Comes the Bride' . . .

By HELOISE CRUISE
HERE COMES THE BRIDE
Dear Brides:

Have a cup of coffee and settle down while I talk to you. Many of you are about to go into orbit! Already your eyes are full of enthusiasm and your hearts are full of love. Soon you're going to get married. Wonderful!

Your hands are soft and smooth and your friends are giving you beautiful, thick bath towels and silver. Great. Take care of that silver and crystal. And also your beautiful bath towels because a few years from now you are going to have to buy cheaper ones or look for sales. You also will have to look at diapers, formulas, bills, sickness and the price of groceries.

Your mother has been through all this. Some of you have never realized it before. You look at Mother as if she were from another planet and far behind the times.

This is not so. Mother didn't have frozen foods and TV when she was your age. But she had problems — and solved them.

Ask your mother a few things. She would love that. She worried and did without for many years to pay your doctor and dental bills and often wore an old stretched girdle to see that you got your pretty dress. Never forget this.

Let me tell you something else. You will do the same thing when those little "gifts from heaven" come along. Then you will be washing baby bottles and diapers and sitting up nights just as your own mother did.

But . . . until then, read. Read anything in print. Learn. I am going to give you a few hints, not advice. (The greatest advice I ever had was from a neighbor before I was married. She said: "Heloise, the best advice I can give you is not to take any advice that anyone gives to you.")

But listen to what people have to say. Then decide whether you can make use of their experience. Just because people tell you how to clean silver doesn't mean you have to clean it that way.

After you return from your honeymoon . . . keep those stars in your eyes. But don't work yourself like a trooper to do it. Learn the easy way.

Dirt is dirt and filth is filth. No two ways about it. But clutter is the worst enemy in any home. Pick up and at least look as if you keep a clean house.

When your husband goes off to work, get the most important things done first.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Make the bed, do your dishes, empty the ash trays and hang the bath towels straight.

As soon as he walks out the door, fill your kitchen sink with all your breakfast dishes and put in some detergent, then turn the hot water faucet on until dishes are covered with the hot water. Forget them for a while. (Never put your hands in hot water if you can help it. Mother didn't know this in her day.)

Immediately go to the bedroom and make the bed.

Next, go back and have that second cup of coffee or tea. Read your paper. Your dishes are soaking, your beds are made and you aren't in too bad shape even if your mother-in-law comes over.

If she does drop in, she'll think: "At least she's neat."

After that cup of coffee, your dishwasher should be cold. Go back and pull the plug out of the sink and let the water drain. Then, and only then, rinse your dishes under the faucet and put them in that dish drainer. You have saved energy, time and your hands this way.

Now what to do with the laundry and ironing that will begin to stack up? Don't worry about it. Just get it done. For the rest of your life, you will have it. And it seems that the longer you are married, the more laundry you will have.

I suggest that you do not even try to be a perfectionist. Don't do the laundry every Monday, ironing on Tuesday, etc., as our mothers did. Do it when you are in the mood. If it's Saturday . . . fine!

Who cares? As long as you have clean clothes. But keep ahead. The days you have energy and feel good . . . that's when to clean closets, cook, bake and wash and iron. You'll do the work twice as fast.

I suggest you brides buy a few inexpensive household musts before you spend your money on flat silver, good dishes or even a new dress.

Buy a carpet sweeper, a feather duster and save for a deep freeze if you have the space for one.

The carpet sweeper is wonderful for the days when you have to get "the middle" clean in a hurry (requires no bending to connect a cord to a socket or to get the vacuum out). When you are low on energy, an old feather duster is wonderful.

Some day you will get a phone call from your husband (the doll you married a few months before . . . remember?) and he will say: "I am bringing a friend home." Or "Mother is dropping by tonight."

Don't let this upset you. Just get that carpet sweeper out and that old feather duster and "Hit Heloise's Middle!" Your home will be neat.

And, girls, remember that I am 54 years old and never yet have I had a guest (or my husband) lift up a bedspread to see if I had dusted under the bed. Nor has any guest moved a piece of furniture to see if I had vacuumed behind it!

These are necessary chores. That's for sure. But don't pull your insides out trying to do these things every day. Do it when necessary.

Another thing I would like to point out to you brides . . . don't use your very best silver, dishes and linen only when company comes.

There will never be anyone in your home any better or more deserving than your husband. Let him enjoy the best. He deserves it. And so do you. Use the best daily.

Why have all of those lovely things if you can't enjoy them? The graveyards are full of women who saved all of these beautiful things hoping that THE day would come. The day never comes. THE day is here today. Use it, enjoy it and make the most of it. This is living.

Don't get sloppy. Wash and put your hair up in rollers in the morning after that "doll" leaves. It should be dry by the time he comes home. Comb or brush your hair. It's noticed, though a few months from now you might not think so. Remember your husband works all day around women who are dressed and have their hair combed!

And, girls, don't forget your lipstick. In the morning, if you don't have time to apply make-up, at least apply a few dabs of lipstick. This takes only seconds.

Your husband wants a home in order . . . neat but not scrubbed to the bone. He also wants a happy wife. Later, your children will want a happy mother . . . not one who complains and is always tired.

Follow my column, Hints from Heloise, for tips from housewives who know and have learned the hard way. They are experienced and have tested everyday problems.

In the meantime, if you have any problems . . . write to me. Send your letters and cards to me, in care of this paper. I am here to help you.

Lots of luck and happiness.

Love, Heloise

PS: As a parting thought, I want to give you one of the greatest slogans I ever coined — it's a reminder not to work yourself to death because — "The second wife ALWAYS has a maid!"

THIS COLUMN is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

A September 7 wedding is being planned.

First Senior Citizen Consumer Information Center Is Open

Senior citizens who are frequently victimized by a host of schemes ranging from medical quackery to work at home frauds have a powerful new ally in their corner. Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz opened the first consumer information and assistance center in a senior citizen center at the Hillcrest

Senior Citizen Center in Queens.

The Attorney General opened the center in cooperation with the Hillcrest Senior Citizens Center at 148-55 Hillside Avenue, Jamaica, on Thursday, May 23.

"I am particularly gratified that those senior citizens who may have found it difficult if not impossible to register their consumer complaints with distant agencies will now have the opportunity to gain the assistance to which they are entitled," Attorney General Lefkowitz said.

While the center will concentrate on the special needs of senior citizens and the frauds which make the elderly their specific target, Attorney General Lefkowitz noted that consumers from the surrounding community will also be served by the center. Four other consumer centers recently opened at settlement houses in Brooklyn, Queens, Manhattan and the Bronx are presently serving the needs of residents in those areas. Information centers also operate at two colleges in the metropolitan area and there are plans for similar programs for high school students.

Like the other information and assistance centers which encourage community participation, the Hillcrest Senior Citizen Center is staffed by residents of the Center who have been trained in the Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Protection in the office of Attorney General Lefkowitz on how to handle the common consumer problems they can expect to encounter.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS — The Woman's Club of Saugerties held installation of officers and a fashion show at the Flamingo Restaurant, Saugerties, earlier this month. Among those participating in the ceremonies were (L-R) Mrs. Bernice Rusczyk, outgoing president; Jerry Caughell, president; Camille Mills, vice president; Ruth Wood, secretary; and Linda Donaldson, publicity. Mrs. Mary Finger was elected treasurer. In conjunction with the Club's theme for 1973-74, "To Seek a Better World," members worked throughout the year for peace and harmony by their active participation in community events. A report outlining the Club's many activities was submitted. Scholarships were awarded, workshops sponsored, socials held, and members participated in various charitable drives. Membership in the Club is open to all women in the community. (Freeman photo by Carey)

SPA Officers Are Named

The Executive Committee of the Board of Directors for the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Inc. elected officers for 1974 during their recent meeting at the Albany Hyatt House. The slate is as follows: Mrs. Ogden Phipps, Chairwoman; Mrs. Nelson A.

Rockefeller, Honorary Chairwoman; Lewis A. Swyer, president; Charles S. Dake, vice president; The Honorable Arthur Levitt, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Mather II, secretary; and John P. MacArthur, assistant secretary.

Mr. Dake has been involved in the Center since its inception. A resident of Saratoga Springs, his activities in the community include: past President of the Chamber of Commerce and the United Fund, and President of Stewart's Ice Cream Co., Inc. His positions in the field of the arts have been many including former director of the Albany Symphony Orchestra, past Chairman of the Board of WMHT TV and FM stations, and former chairman of the WMHT Auction.

The Executive Committee also appointed Mr. James Benton of Saratoga Springs to a position on the Board of Directors. A former mayor of Saratoga Springs, Mr. Benton is Chairman of the Saratoga Springs Urban Renewal Agency and President of the Board of Managers of the Saratoga Hospital. Mr. Benton is also involved in the current movement to preserve the value of the mineral springs in Saratoga.

The Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Inc. is incorporated in the State of New York as an eleemosynary, educational institution.

Its policies are formed by a self-appointed Board of Directors ratified by its working members. Its operations are administered by a General Manager who is appointed by the Board. Membership in the Center is gained by individuals who contribute $15 or more annually. Members who contribute $100 or more annually are voting members.

The Center is the summer home of the New York City Ballet, The Philadelphia Orchestra, and the City Center Acting Company. Its Saratoga Festival also includes performances of chamber music, opera, film and well-known recording and television artists. The Center opened in July, 1966.

Top Students Selected At Highland High School

VALEDICTORIAN Mara Murphy and Salutatorian Mark J. Peplow of Highland High School are pictured in an informal pose after a busy school year.

The two top students of Highland High School Class of 1974 have been determined. Valedictorian is Miss Mara Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Murphy of New Paltz Road, Highland. Salutatorian is Mark J. Peplow, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Peplow, Pancake Hollow Road, Highland.

Miss Murphy has qualified for top honors with an over-all four year average of 96 per cent. A member of the National Honor Society, Miss Murphy will begin studies at Cornell University in the fall, majoring in Biology.

During her senior year, Miss Murphy was a member of the Senior play production of "DON'T DRINK THE WATER". She has also served as assistant editor of the yearbook for the 1974 edition of the ECHO, and participated in Senior Seminar. A recipient of a Regents Scholarship, Miss Murphy will receive a Regents Diploma in June, with honors in Mathematics, Science and French.

Peplow will graduate with an overall average of 93 per cent.

A member of both the Junior High and National Honor Societies, Peplow has been a long-standing member of the Highland Band. He has also been a member of both Junior and Senior Class play productions. As a member of the 1974 Washington Club, Peplow visited Washington, D.C. this spring. He is a member of the production staff of the 1974 Echo.

A winner of a Regents Scholarship, he will attend Ulster County Community College and will major in Biology. In June he will receive a Regents Diploma with honors in Mathematics and Science.

The Second Forty

By Margaret Brookfield

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice write Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 515 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

My sister, a mature woman, is a chronic complainer. If someone compliments her husband, she runs him down. If she isn't complaining about her children, it's her housework. Recently, her husband was badly injured in an accident. While he was hospitalized, my sister fell and sprained her ankle. I was completely unaware of her fall when I phoned her to ask about her husband's condition. She replied angrily, "Oh, he's alright but I'm not." Actually, her husband was undergoing surgery. What's wrong with her?

D.P.

Dear D.P.:

Her constant complaints are your sister's attempts to elicit sympathy and attention. Obviously, she feels that both are lacking in her life and, possibly, marriage. Like so many chronic complainers she'll lose, rather than win, friends with her approach. If you sit down with her for a long, sisterly talk, perhaps you'll learn what's bugging her.

Dear Margaret Brookfield: I had a difficult time 15 years ago when I went through menopause. My doctor at that time prescribed hormones which relieved the hot flashes and sweats. I was on this medication for years. About three months ago I moved to another state. Shortly afterward I stopped taking estrogen. Now I find the hot flashes and sweats returning. Is this possible at 60?

Dear B.G.:

Yes, it is. Dr. David H. Kushner, clinical professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Georgetown University Medical School, states that five or 10 years after menopause, some women have no symptoms and no longer require estrogen replacement therapy. But some women who have been treated for hormonal imbalance at menopause develop hot flashes and sweats when they are taken off medication. If you do not have a doctor in your new community, ask the local medical association for recommendations.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 29, have been married for 12 years, and have four children. (The youngest is seven.)

I breast-fed all my children. At the same time I also breast-fed my husband. He enjoyed it, and I didn't mind as I have had plenty of milk even when I wasn't pregnant. I have long quit breast-feeding my youngest child, but my husband wants it nearly every day.

He is 44 and recently retired from the military. What worries me is this: never-ending supply of milk I seem to have. I had a hysterectomy last year, and even that didn't dry me up. It doesn't bother me physically, but I keep wondering if I am normal? My husband thinks it's super. The older I get the more I worry about it, because I've never heard of this before. Have you?

NAME WITHHELD BY REQUEST

DEAR NAME: Yes. All animals, including humans, secrete milk as long as the mammary glands (breasts) receive stimulation from sucking and emptying. Don't worry; you are normal. The abnormal one could be your husband, but as long as he's happy and you don't mind accommodating him, there's no problem. His hunger is probably more erotic than caloric.

DEAR ABBY: My in-laws have turned against me because when I was going steady with their son he got me pregnant. I was five months along when we were married. The baby is two years old now, and my mother-in-law has never seen him! My mother has called my mother-in-law trying to make friends with her, but my mother-in-law said she doesn't want anything to do with my mother or any of her family — including me. I think it's terrible that my husband's mother has never accepted any of my invitations to come here and see her grandson or asked me to come over and bring him. We live only 20 minutes from each other.

My husband says unless his mother apologizes to my mother, he doesn't care if he never sees her again. (His own mother, that is.)

How can I get our parents together? My husband and I are happy. Why can't they be?

SAD ABOUT IT

DEAR SAD: Your husband's mother appears to be the one who's causing all the trouble, and until she changes her attitude, nothing else will change. It's very sad indeed. But the greatest loss is hers. Pray for her, and don't quit trying. I'll bet in time she'll mellow.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

The custom of having the groom's family give a dinner the night before the wedding for the bride and groom and immediate families of the bride and groom has grown so prevalent in recent years that it is now an indispensable feature of most weddings. Unlike most parties that are given in one's own home, or at least in one's home town, a rehearsal dinner often is held in a strange neighborhood half way across the country from the hosts' home. This quiz should help to answer some of the problems that may arise when giving a party under these circumstances.

1. Q. To what extent and when should the bride's mother offer to help the groom's family with the preparations?

A. The bride's mother should not say anything until she hears from the groom's family that they are indeed intending to give a rehearsal dinner. At this time, if the groom's family are "out-of-towners," she should offer her help in reserving an appropriate place for the party.

2. Q. Supposing the groom's family cannot or does not wish to host a rehearsal dinner, may the party be given by a member of the bride's family?

A. Of course. There is no rule that the groom's family give this dinner, but they usually do, as an extremely nice gesture of repayment to the bride's family for all the courtesies they have extended throughout the wedding activities.

3. Q. How should the invitations be issued?

A. They may be written on informals or they may simply be handwritten notes. They may also be telephoned, but since many of the guests may be from out-of-town, a written invitation is apt to be simpler, less expensive, and serves as a reminder of the time, address, etc.

4. Q. Who should be included as guests?

A. All the members of the bridal party (with the exception of very young flower girls, pages, or ring bearers), the immediate families of the bride and groom, and out-of-town relatives who have arrived for the wedding are invited. If facilities and finances permit, a few very close friends are often included, especially those who come from a distance.

5. Q. What is the best seating arrangement?

A. A U-shaped table. The bride and groom sit at the base of the "U" with their attendants beside them. If there are many in the bridal party, some are seated opposite the bride and groom. The groom's parents — or whoever are the host and hostess — sit at either end of the "U," with the bride's mother on the groom's father's right, and the bride's father on the groom's mother's right.

6. Q. What should be an appropriate menu?

A. This depends on the size and formality of the party. At a formal dinner, there are usually three or four courses: soup (consomme, vichyssoise, turtle soup, etc.); an entree of filet mignon, a roast, guinea hen or whatever appeals to the bride and groom; a salad, which may be served with the entree or as a separate course, and dessert. If the wedding is informal and untraditional, the menu might range from lasagne to Mexican chile to barbecued hamburgers, in which case the setting would be different, too.

Avery Show at Jarvis Gallery

Jarvis Gallery, Broadview Road, Woodstock, heralds the spring and summer season this Memorial Day weekend with a gala re-opening show on Saturday from 1 to 6 p.m. featuring the works of Sally and March Avery and the late Milton Avery.

The show is open to the public from 1 to 6 p.m. and admission is free.

Billed as The New Avery Show, the collection will include most recent works by the mother and daughter team of artists. Mrs. Avery is making several of her husband's works available to the Gallery for exhibition as she has done in the past.

Avery paintings are very important in the art world these days. A self-taught painter, Avery gained his strength and knowledge through trial and error, through direct experience with the motif and through intelligent affection for the work of Henri Matisse. One Avery painting, owned by Trudy Jarvis, was included in a national Smithsonian Institute touring show.

Sally Avery has exhibited extensively in New York City and Florida. She has had one man shows in Provincetown, Hartford Conn., and has won a number of awards for her water colors and oils including First Prizes at the Village Art Center in New York and Fellowships.

March Avery holds a BA from Barnard College and has been making giant steps in the world of art. She has had many one man shows in New York, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, Pa., Provincetown, Mass.

Jarvis Gallery is housed in the former Marsh Museum which was built originally to house the important Marsh collection of American Folk art. The folk art is now on display in the Smithsonian Institute Washington, D.C.

The Jarvis apartment in the former museum is separated from today's gallery by a stately authentic Georgian structure featuring an Irish palladium doorway, circa 1760, imported from Dublin.

The New Avery Family Exhibit will be held in the gallery through June. During the week, the Jarvis Gallery will be open to the public Thursday through Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m.

Green Light Flashes at Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — From a legal standpoint, the green light flashed today for Sunday's running of the rich Indianapolis "500." Now it's up to the weatherman to cooperate.

The Speedway classic's 33-car starting field got the go-ahead signal when a judge ruled Thursday against efforts to halt the million-dollar chase because five owners did not get a chance to have their cars qualified.

Damage suits against the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Corp. remained and there were indications the five owners will press their case. They seek more than $1 million for "breach of contract."

Preparations for the race were completed at the Speedway with three-hour carburetor tests honing the engines to a highly competitive edge. Thousands of spectators paid a dollar each to watch the zooming cars. Two of them got more than they bargained for when an exploding turbocharger of Bob Harkey's car scattered bits of metal like shrapnel. One man was cut near the mouth and another had his finger slashed by a whirling piece of casing.

Johnny Rutherford, last year's pole sitter relegated to the ninth row this Sunday when he ran afoul of a United States Auto Club time qualification rule, toured a lap in the top time of 1:32.424 miles an hour.

Marion County Superior Judge Frank A. Symmes Jr., following two days of testimony, dismissed the threat against the race on a defense motion that the plaintiffs failed to exhaust all remedies available to them after they were denied a protest seeking extension of the time trials last Saturday.

The owners' alternative, before going to court, was to appeal to a board of judges.

Eleven cars were left standing at the starting line when the rain-shortened qualifying runs ended. Their owners' protest was denied by the USAC and IMS on grounds one car "broke the qualifying line" when it was presented for qualifications a second time.

Since a full field of 33 cars plus two alternates was achieved by the time the trials ended, officials ruled that qualifications were over.

The protest involved a car qualified by rookie Johnny Parsons of Indianapolis, son of the 1959 race winner.

Car owner Carl Gehlhausen testified Thursday Parsons' car was pushed ahead of his own to be qualified and that he and other owners were assured by a USAC official that their machines would all get a chance to make the field. However, rain cut into the time allotted for the trials and the 11 cars never got a chance to qualify.

Gehlhausen's testimony was echoed by that of Marvin Webster, Mill Valley, Calif., who said he had known May 11, when the trials opened, that his car wouldn't get a chance to qualify the following week. "I would have gone home," he said.

Rookie driver Eldon Rasmussen, Indianapolis, owner of his entry, said he spent "more than $100,000" to get the car ready.

"Our understanding was we qualify until everyone has one attempt," he said. "We were in line to be qualified and had no previous indications we would not be allowed to qualify."

Lindsey Hopkins, Miami, a member of USAC's board of directors, said the non-qualified cars should have received a chance even if it meant one of his three cars already in the field would be bumped. He also testified he read the disputed rule eight times "and I still don't understand it."

"I was told by (Speedway Vice President) Joe Cloutier about it and he said I should read the fine print."

Attorneys for the plaintiffs ruled out an appeal from Symmes' decision for lack of time before Sunday's race.

"It's difficult to accept this decision but the judge has been quite fair," said attorney Wright Huges Jr., who initiated the court case.

Car owner Roy Woods, Marina Del Rey, Calif., said he felt Symmes "bowed out on a technicality," and added he was sure the damage case against the Speedway would be carried the legal load for the attorney Don Tabbert, who carried on.

"If there is a case for damages, it will be a better case after Sunday," said plaintiffs in court.

LAST YEAR'S BEST—Tom Seaver, who reportedly has been hard-pressed to come up with a smile lately the way his season has been going (he's 2-4), receives Cy Young Award for being the best pitcher in the National League last year. Formal ceremony was rained out along with Mets-Cubs game Thursday. (UPI)

Expos Have Title Dreams

By United Press International On a clear day—and even on a foggy night—the Montreal Expos can see their first pennant.

Willie Davis, who can lose fly balls on the sunniest of days (just ask Sandy Koufax), handed the Pittsburgh Pirates two runs Thursday night when he lost a fly ball in the fog shrouded Jarry Park.

The fog was so bad the umpires even held up the game for 56 minutes in the sixth inning.

But once it swirled away, the Expos went on to record a 5-4 triumph over the pirates that moved them within 1 1/2 games of idle Philadelphia in the National League East. The Expos are shooting to become the first of the 1969 expansion teams to win a division crown.

Davis, who came to the Expos from the Dodgers in the controversial Mike Marshall trade (it could be, as the cliché goes, the trade that helps both clubs), and Barry Foote each drove in two runs for Montreal to hand Steve Rogers his seventh win.

Davis, who fly ball muffs in the second game of the 1966 World Series cost Hall of Famer Koufax a defeat in the last game he ever pitched, couldn't be blamed this time because Al Oliver's routine fly got lost in the fog and fell for a

Even Weather Ruins Seaver

NEW YORK (UPI) — This is the kind of a season it's been for Tom Seaver, the New York Mets' $172,000-a-year pitcher.

It rained on him even on the day when he received the National League's Cy Young Award for his 19-10 performance in 1973.

"I guess it just wasn't an appropriate day for it," said Seaver after Thursday's game between the Mets and Chicago Cubs was rained out. "You could say the arrangements could have been better."

Seaver, who has a 2-4 record and a 3.74 earned run average this season, was supposed to receive the Cy Young Award from baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn before the game but the rain which started early in the morning continued until shortly after 3 p.m. when the game was postponed.

M-H Soccer Association Schedules Registration

KINGSTON Mid Hudson Soccer Association will hold another registration session Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 12 at the municipal auditorium. All soccer candidates who have not yet registered may do so at that time.

The association will field four divisions—the Yankee League for 8 to 11 year olds; National League, 12 to 14; Atomic League, 15-17; and the Prospect League for anyone out of high school.

Last summer in the association's second year of existence the program increased from 13 teams with 220 young men to 24 teams in four divisions and 450 players involved. It is expected that 30 teams with 500 men and boys will participate in this season's program which gets under way the last week in June.

Gaylord Perry's Psyche Job

By United Press International Gaylord Perry is doing some psyche job on the American League.

Perry, accused on numerous occasions over the years of throwing an illegal pitch but never caught in the act, has had AL batters guessing about his pitches more than ever this year despite having done away with all the gyrations he used to go through on the mound.

The 35-year-old right-hander had the Baltimore Orioles completely baffled Thursday night when he tossed a three-hitter for his seventh straight victory while pitching the Cleveland Indians to a 2-0 triumph.

"I've cut out the gyrations completely. It gives the umpires ideas," said Perry, referring to the new rule this season which leaves it up to the umpire's discretion whether or not a pitcher is throwing an illegal pitch. "But I hope the hitters think that I'm doing something. What I might be doing better this year than last is setting the hitters up better."

Perry, who bested 1973 Cy Young Award winner Jim Palmer in the pitchers' duel, recorded his 34th career shutout and received high praise from his catcher, Dave Duncan, as well as Baltimore's Tommy Davis.

"He's so good I can't believe it," said Duncan. "Perry doesn't make mistakes and he's never on the defensive as a pitcher. I've never caught a pitcher who can compare to him. He's got a psychological advantage over hitters because they think he's throwing something that he doesn't."

Davis, who has probably faced Perry more than any other batter over the last decade, feels Perry has improved with age.

"I think I was 0-for-73 against Perry last year," quipped Davis. "He's one of the best pitchers in baseball. He's gotten much better. He has the batters fooled. He's got them all psyched out."

In the other games, San Francisco downed Los Angeles 7-6 and San Diego outlasted Cincinnati 5-4 in 13 innings. Chicago at New York was rained out.

Giants 7, Dodgers 6
The Dodgers, running away with the Western Division title, lost the kind of game pennant winners aren't supposed to blow. Andy Messersmith took a 6-3 lead into the seventh but the Giants scored four runs to pull it out. A walk and singles by Garry Maddox and Steve Ontiveros produced one run and chased Messersmith. Marshall then came in and was charged with the loss.

Making his seventh straight appearance, he was touched for an infield hit and a pop fly single. After a fielder's choice grounder by Chris Speier tied the game 6-6, Dave Rader singled in the deciding run.

Derral Thomas scored the tying run in the 12th inning and then drove in the deciding run with a sacrifice fly in the 13th as San Diego outlasted Cincinnati. The Reds seemed to have wrapped up the game with a run in the top of the 12th but San Diego tied it in the bottom of the inning when Fred Kendall's grounder went through Dan Driessen's legs as Thomas scored from third. The Reds collected 18 hits but stranded 20 runners, 12 in the first six innings.

Padres 5, Reds 4
Derral Thomas scored the tying run in the 12th inning and then drove in the deciding run with a sacrifice fly in the 13th as San Diego outlasted Cincinnati. The Reds seemed to have wrapped up the game with a run in the top of the 12th but San Diego tied it in the bottom of the inning when Fred Kendall's grounder went through Dan Driessen's legs as Thomas scored from third. The Reds collected 18 hits but stranded 20 runners, 12 in the first six innings.

While it was another impressive win for Perry, it was a disappointing loss for Palmer, who has now dropped five in a row. Both runs off Palmer were unearned as a result of errors by shortstop Mark Belanger and leftfielder Al Bumbry.

In the only other scheduled AL game, Chicago trimmed Texas 9-6, California beat Kansas City 3-1 and Milwaukee downed Detroit 7-3.

White Sox 9, Rangers 6
Carlos May drove in three runs with a double and a sacrifice fly to spark the White Sox' triumph. Skip Pitlock worked five innings in relief to gain his first AL win and also became the first pitcher in the league to bat this season when he reached base on an error in the sixth. Jeff Burroughs homered for Texas.

Angels 3, Royals 1
Nolan Ryan pitched a four-hitter to highlight the Angels' victory. Ryan, who struck out six and walked four, outdueled

Bruce Dal Canton in notching his sixth win in 10 decisions. Bobby Valentine drove in the tie-breaking run in the seventh with a sacrifice fly.

Brewers 7, Tigers 3
George Scott and Bob Hansen each drove in a pair of runs to back the six-hit pitching of Jim Slaton in the Brewers' triumph. Scott tripled home a run in the seventh inning and walked with the bases loaded in the eighth while Hansen singled home two runs in the first.

Rule Williams Ineligible

CARLSVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Austin Peay's James "Fly" Williams, one of the country's top five basketball scorers during his first two years of college, apparently won't be playing next season because of someone else's mistake.

Williams, who averaged 27.5 points a game last season and 29.5 two years ago, was declared indefinitely ineligible Thursday for intercollegiate competition because the Ohio Valley Conference had misinterpreted NCAA entrance requirements.

"He's being punished for the mistake of someone else," Austin Peay Athletic Director George Fisher said. Fisher blamed OVC Commissioner Art Guepe, and Guepe accepted the responsibility.

"Someone has to take the rap on this and it might as well be me," Guepe said.

Fisher said Williams entered school after taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test. The results of that test were converted, under guidelines designed by the conference, to project Williams' American Collegiate Testing score, he said.

This conversion of test scores, he said, was outlawed by the NCAA in April 1969.

Fisher speculated that athletes at the seven other OVC schools will face the same situation as Williams.

Williams, a 6-foot-5 forward from Brooklyn, N. Y., was not available to newsmen Thursday but issued a statement through Austin Peay assistant coach Leonard Hamilton.

He said he plans to return to Austin Peay this fall and has written to the National Basketball Association and requested that his name be removed from the hardship list.

He said earlier this week he had rejected a $1.5 million offer to play for Denver of the American Basketball Association.

last hole and was eight shots back at 73. Many of the game's glamor names are skipping this event sandwiched between two "designated tournaments," events in which they must compete.

"The thing that's on my mind," said Player, "is the Grand Slam, winning those four one-year sweep of the four is nearly impossible.

The Grand Slam consists of a one-year sweep of the Masters, U.S. and British Opens, and the PGA. It's never been done. Only four players have won all four in a lifetime—Player, Nicklaus, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen.

Many observers feel a one-year sweep of the four is nearly impossible.

Barnes on Probation

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—All America center Marvin Barnes of Providence College has been given a one-year suspended sentence and put on probation for three years after pleading guilty to beating a former teammate with a tire iron.

Rhinebeck's Kane to Marist College

Rhinebeck High School's Paul Kane, Dutchess County's all-time leading scholastic basketball scorer and twice the Freeman's Player-of-the-Year, has enrolled at Marist College, it was announced today.

Kane, who scored 1,610 points during his four year varsity career at Rhinebeck, has been chosen for every all-scholastic team for which he has been eligible. In addition to Freeman honors, Kane was four times a member of the DCSL Bi-Valley star team, twice its most valuable player, and two times a member of the New York State Sports Writers Association's All-State team.

"Paul is an excellent college prospect," Rhinebeck Coach Charles Sherman says. "I'm confident he will have a successful career at Marist."

Marist coach Ron Petro

echoed Sherman's sentiments. "We are pleased to have someone of Paul's ability attending Marist next year," Petro commented. "We have been successful recently with local players, and we expect Paul to be an influential member of the team. His great scoring ability will provide us with the offense that we were sorely missing when Mike Hart was injured last year."

Other local cagers on the Marist varsity are Hart, Jim Osika, and Roury Williams. Phil Palladino of Coleman played with the junior varsity.

"We hope we can continue to attract good local athletes like Paul who will help Marist to gain recognition in basketball," Petro added.

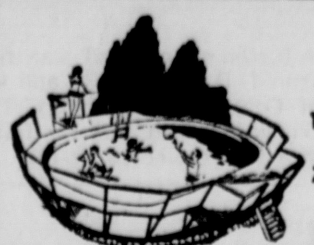

Kane, who will enter the Business program at Marist, said he chose the Poughkeepsie school

"because I feel Marist will allow me an opportunity to play against top flight competition."

HERE'S $20 TO HELP BUY YOUR FIRST SET OF STEEL-BELTED RADIALS.

We're the Sunoco Tire Store. The guys who service your car. Buy Kelly-Springfield steel-belted radials from us and you'll get more than better steering and traction. More than extra miles and a smoother ride. With this coupon, you'll get $5 off each tire.

And we'll balance them. No charge. Same as we balance every tire we sell.

We'll help you take care of them, by looking them over when you're in for service. And if anything goes wrong, you've got us to come to.

And we'll give you our best deal. Put it on your Sunoco credit card if you want. We can even get you extended credit terms.

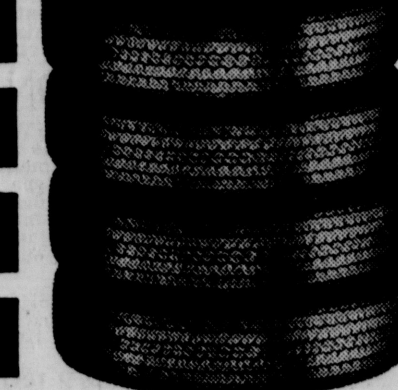

We've got to do more for you than a regular tire store. We see you all the time. And we want to keep seeing you.

So get your Sunoco man's best price on his steel-belted radials. Then give him this coupon. He'll give you $5 off his best price on every tire.

Try us. We can be very friendly.

STEEL-BELTED RADIALS $20 OFF SET OF 4

• Strong steel cord belt • Polyester radial cord body
• 4 wide textile belts • Computer-designed tread

HERE'S ALL YOU HAVE TO DO

1. Purchase Kelly-Springfield Steel-Belted Radial Tires from a participating Sunoco dealer. You and the dealer agree on the purchase price.

2. Then present this coupon and get a discount of $5 from the agreed purchase price of each tire. Limit four tires per coupon.

LARGEST TURTLE — The largest turtle ever found was recently pieced together after six months of painstaking labor by Arnold B. Lewis (R) and Gabrielle Dundon, staff members of Harvard University's Museum of Comparative Zoology. This fresh-water turtle of the family Pelomedusidae lived six million years ago and was found in Northern Venezuela. Eight feet long and six feet wide, the turtle was collected in 1972. 'At Large' Election in Red Hook

A different method of selecting board of education members will be on the Red Hook Central School ballot June 12.

Following the submission of a petition to the school board by the Red Hook Taxpayers Association this month, the board decided in special session this week to incorporate the subject of that petition into the annual elections and budget vote.

What it means is this: those running for office will run "at large," instead of against a single designated candidate. In other words, the candidates with the highest vote totals will get the seats on the board. If three compete for two seats, the two with most votes win.

As it now stands, according to district business manager and clerk Earl Friant, there are only two candidates who have filed for election this year, and both are incumbents — Dr. Carl Stelman and attorney Douglas Wicks. Deadline for submission of a candidate's petition to the school board is May 28.

The change could not apply in this year's election, if approved.

Tad Peters, president of the Red Hook Taxpayers Association (RHTA), explained the reasoning behind the move in this way: "When two seats are to be filled, as is the case this year, the incumbents are running to succeed themselves. Should only one new candidate declare, it means one incumbent will run unopposed."

This proposed change in the voting procedure will be one of several items to be discussed tonight at the RHTA's 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Red Hook Grange Hall.

After the regular business meeting, the gathering will be addressed by Assemblyman Emel Betros. The meetings are open to the public.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) the pipe. You spend more freely than you should. Some minor discords will arise domestically. They can be smoothed over quickly if both parties are willing to say they're sorry.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your interests will be split today. That which you're involved with will suffer. Neither interest will get the proper attention.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) All your good resolutions regarding budgeting are likely to go down CANCER (June 21-July 22) An outside obligation and your family will both be tugging for your attention today. You'll do better to give domestic matters priority.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be reticent about asking another to help with a problem you can't resolve. He'll not think any less of you for it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take it easy this weekend

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're overly sensitive today in analyzing the way friends behave toward you. This could lead you to make an issue over nothing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Give credit where credit is due. If you try to take over the spotlight without acknowledging assistance you'll wind up with an angry teammate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a bit of impishness in you. This could lead you to look for greener pastures. Things will get very complicated if you do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 29) Decisions you make today shouldn't be based upon guess-work. If you're short on facts, You're not thinking about material things as practically as you should.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Tasks requiring complete concentration should not be attempted till later in the day. In the a.m., your attention span is very limited.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're nowhere near as lucky today as you were yesterday. Don't take risks you shouldn't. Play everything close to the vest.

May 25, 1974

The early part of this year, things may not come together as quickly as you'd like. Don't be discouraged. When the score is tallied you'll come out ahead.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

MOVE. (Q) My father works for a chemical company. We lived in New Jersey two years but live in Texas now. Texas is OK, except that Don is still in New Jersey. He and I agreed to break up, but I miss him so.

We have been here two months, and two boys have asked me for dates. I told them no, because I can't forget Don. Please help me.—15 in Texas

(A) Being in a family that must move often, as many, many families have to do nowadays, is not easy. But people are adaptable. YOU are adaptable.

The next time a decent boy whom you do not actively dislike asks you for a date, try to say yes.

Concentrating on other boys will help you stop concentrating on Don.

SEX: (Q) David and I have been dating for six months. I like him a lot. After about three months he began to ask me for sex. I said no for a long time, but he kept on, and last week I said yes, even though I didn't really want to.

It wasn't any fun. Do you think there is something wrong with me? It was the first time for me. I don't think it was the first time for David.—16 in Pennsylvania

(A) The main thing wrong with you is that you said yes when you meant no. Do not do that again.

When you find the right person and the right time, sex won't disappoint you. That may be a long time, but it will be worth waiting for.

David is not the right person for you. He doesn't know how to wait.

South would be back on lead and play a third heart. East would win and lead anything he wanted. It wouldn't matter. South would get to ruff a heart in dummy to establish his last heart as a winner.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Sea dogs" were experienced English sailors who plundered Spanish gold ships. Their new naval tactics aided in destroying the huge Spanish Armada in 1588 and saved England from invasion. The World Almanac says. This battle revealed that small, maneuverable ships using heavy guns at a distance could defeat larger ships which relied on close-range fighting and boarding tactics.

THE CHURCH OF VEERE
Netherlands, NOW A RUIN, HAS SERVED SINCE THE 14th CENTURY AS A HOSPITAL, A WORKHOUSE AND A BARRACKS

'Good Boy' Hijacks Copter

NEW YORK (UPI) — A young man described as "a good boy who has never been in any trouble" hijacked a helicopter at gunpoint Thursday and forced the pilot to fly him to the top of the 59-story Pan Am building, where he demanded that a bikini-clad girl deliver a $2 million ransom.

David Frank Kamaiko, 22, was captured by police and FBI agents after the pilot sprinted to safety and a second hostage, a helicopter mechanic, tore the gun away and clubbed him.

The pilot, Thomas Oliva, was shot in the shoulder as he made his escape and was later reported in stable condition at a Polyclinic Hospital. No one else was hurt.

Police said Kamaiko reportedly told an arresting officer he wanted the ransom "to buy guns for Israel."

He also claimed to belong to the Jewish Defense League, but a spokesman for that organization denied Kamaiko was a member.

A neighbor of the young man's family in Greenwich Village later said Kamaiko was "a good boy who has never been in any trouble."

"He's a good boy, dependable, and doesn't belong to any groups or things like that," said Betty Millard, who claimed she has known Kamaiko since he was a baby.

The long-haired youth was armed with a sawed-off rifle, a small zip gun and three sticks of dynamite but later turned out to be railroad flares. He commandeered the helicopter just after noon at the 34th Street Heliport, near the East River.

He rammed a gun in the back of the mechanic, Bill Hale, 21, and ordered him aboard, then ordered Oliva to "land on top of an oil storage tank across the river" in Queens.

When told the tank would not support the weight of the helicopter, he ordered Oliva, "Take me to the U.N."

But as they neared the United Nations, police said, Oliva said a landing there also was impractical and the hijacker told him to go to the Pan Am Building, which towers over Grand Central Station 11 blocks from where the hijack started.

Oliva set the craft down at an abandoned heliport atop the building and the hijacker told him he wanted $2 million ransom in $10 bills to be delivered in suitcases by a girl wearing a bikini.

At his arraignment in Manhattan Federal Court on air piracy charges, Kamaiko was ordered held on $100,000 bail after the government said "this crime poses the most extreme motive to flee."

U.S. Magistrate Charles J. Hartenstine scheduled a hearing in the case for May 31. The charge carries a 20-year-to-life prison sentence.

Captured

David Frank Kamaiko, the helicopter-hijacker is led out of Pan Am Building following his rooftop capture by police. The 25-year-old man, with long hair and torn jeans, was subdued on the building's heliport. He had the copter flown to the midtown skyscraper where he demanded money — either $2,000,000 or $200,000 — the amount was unclear. (UPI Telephoto).

Brother Makes Pledge As 'Cinque' Is Buried

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Delano DeFreeze pledged to take up his fallen brother's cause Thursday after the Symbionese Liberation Army's "General Field Marshal Cinque," Donald DeFreeze, was buried here.

"The SLA is not dead," he said in a calm, soft-spoken voice. "I'm already carrying on my brother's banner."

Donald, 30, died a week ago today in a two-hour gunbattle with Los Angeles police and FBI agents to climax a three month hunt for the alleged kidnapers of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst. The Los Angeles coroner said evidence indicates the wound was self-inflicted.

"I have something to fulfill," added DeFreeze, 28, surrounded by "Black Revolution Guards" at the cemetery. "We must be willing to die for our cause and that cause is the people — anybody — just people."

During the Islamic services at the House of Wills Funeral Home, Delano offered the

Debt Limit Increase Barely Passes House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Liberal Democrats and conservative Republicans, both apparently dissatisfied with U.S. economic policy, almost killed an increase in the national debt limit Thursday.

Speaker Carl Albert was forced to break a 190-190 tie to pass the $19.3 billion increase, which would bring the total limit on Treasury borrowing to $495 billion through next March 31.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where action is expected before the current debt limit of $475.7 billion expires June 30. The total debt at that time is expected to reach $474 billion, just short of the limit.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and floor manager of the bill, said its narrow approval reflected dissatisfaction with President Nixon's economic policies.

Nevertheless, he said, Congress has no choice but to increase the national debt limit because Congress already has approved spending measures that force an increase in the debt. "We're paying for our sins of the past," Mills said.

major bills are attached to the debt limit because the debt bill is considered "veto-proof."

One major bill being considered as a rider to the debt bill is a tax cut for individual income and tax reform measures.
